IS YOUR MATERIAL HANDLING SYSTEM Improved TO ITS HIGHEST EFFICIENCY TO MEET NATIONAL DEFENSE NEEDS?

TRADE AUTOMATIC MARK

That's an important reminder at the start of 1941 because more than ever before every industry will be called upon to give unrelenting and timely support to the National Defense Program by meeting contract schedules.

This means you must have the highest efficiency in the movement and storage of materials to cope with your increased production demands.

That's where "AUTOMATIC" is prepared to perform its part in this program by furnishing you with proven equipment to give your system top-performance and low-cost materials storage and transportation. Industrial research over the past few years will give you the benefit now, without experimenting, of the latest and most satisfactory types.

The most popular standard type "AUTOMATICS" are illustrated here. So write, 'phone, or wire for complete details or for an "AUTOMATIC" representative to discuss your material handling problems now.

In The Next Three Minutes YOU May Take The Most IMPORTANT STEP of Your LIFE

THE next few minutes may prove to be a vital turning point in your life.

During them, you may do something that hundreds of other traffic men already have done—something that has shown them the way to bigger jobs, better pay, real business success.

That "something" is to send for all the facts about traffic management training—to discover for yourself how LaSalle traffic training may fit you (as it has so many others) for an executive position in your chosen field.

Today, traffic opportunities are almost unlimited. Transportation is changing—expanding—finding countless new ways to serve business. Swift streamlined trains, improved truck service and airlines, have speeded up freight schedules. New legislation, rates, regulations, competition—all have created important new problems that only trained men can solve.

And because of these facts you—already started in the field—have a marvelous opportunity to show your employers how well you understand these problems, how you can save them money, delays, replacements, and loss of good will through a correct handling of traffic problems.

Supervising the packing, marking, weighing and shipping of freight—auditing freight bills—preparing, presenting and collecting damage claims—choosing economical containers—selecting money-saving and serviceable routes—tracing over-due shipments—securing more favorable rates—advising on strategic distributing methods—these and dozens of other opportunities to show value to an employer are waiting the trained man. And LaSalle is waiting to train that man—you!

For it's only a well-trained traffic man who can handle such duties well. And while you can learn some of the fundamentals from personal experience, you cannot learn to be an expert by picking up things as you go. Training—particularly LaSalle traffic training which has been built by traffic experts and is taught by traffic experts—alone will fit you for the top executive jobs in your field.

Are you one of the men content to drift? Or are you determined to get ahead—reach those top positions?

If you are ambitious, LaSalle training by the Problem Method can quickly fit you to really go places. Even if you were given permission to work daily with an expert traffic executive, you could not surpass the thoroughness and comprehensiveness of the LaSalle traffic management training. For not one, but 175 traffic experts helped mould LaSalle's training. And other experts teach it—keep it up-to-date—make it practical.

Under the LaSalle Problem Method of training, every step you take is perfectly clear. There are no unexplained technicalities to bother you. Step by step you learn to meet problems, and solve them. The work is practical, vital, interesting. A minimum of theory is taught. A maximum of practice is demanded. When you're graduated, you are fitted for a better position.

Will you then get such a position? No one can guarantee it, but hundreds have been promoted as a result of their LaSalle training.

Find Out for Yourself—FREE!

Let us send you—absolutely free—our 48-page free book which describes fully the opportunities in traffic management and LaSalle's training that fits you for those opportunities. Don't let these three minutes pass in vain—send now the convenient coupon below. This may be the turning point in your life!

COST LESSON No. 2

How To Multiply Storage Capacity Instantly

VALUABLE SPACE is saved here by handling the finished product in large unit loads and stacking them three high—with one man and a Towmotor.

IT'S A QUICK, easy job to tier 2500-lb. rolls of paper with Towmotor's new low-priced lift truck. It's small, but mighty! Light, but rugged!

STACKING these 4500-lb. pallet loads of brick with a Towmotor saves valuable storage space, eliminates rehandling, reduces breakage losses.

If you are looking for a quick way to increase storage capacity—or gain extra floor space for productive work—by all means investigate the economy of a Towmotor materials handling system. For in case after case, storage capacity has been doubled—and even tripled—simply by planning larger unit loads and stacking them up to the ceiling, with powerful Towmotor lift trucks.

Why Towmotors? Chiefly because Towmotors move more tons per day at less cost per ton than any machine in their class. They give you faster travel speeds, faster lifting speeds—plus steady power 24 hours a day. That's why leading materials handling specialists prefer Towmotors—why you'll be wise in buying them yourself. In capacities from 1,000 to 10,000 lbs. you'll find Towmotors tops for safe, speedy, low-cost handling.

"A BOOK worth reading by every warehouseman" — Distributors' News. "Shows unmistakable evidence of a thorough knowledge of the subject"—American Business. "Covers the entire field of warehousing"—Traffic World. Referred to as "a ready-made sales manual for warehousemen"—

PUBLIC WAREHOUSING

HERE is a bedrock book for every warehouseman on the lookout for better ways to sell his service to prospective users. It was written by one of the country's really outstanding experts in the field.

He has followed the recent changes which have occurred in warehousing. In his book he has drawn a concise picture of them. New opportunities for bringing down distribution costs are opening up to large sales organizations through warehousing. These are subjected to thoroughgoing analysis for selling purposes in PUBLIC WAREHOUSING.

COVERS both general merchandise and field warehousing; evaluates and clarifies important new financial services warehousing performs; explains in detail the use of negotiable and non-negotiable warehouse receipts as instruments of credit. Those are just a few of the ways this convincing book will help to show the man who has something to sell how warehousing can help him to do it at less cost, greater speed, more flexibly. $3.50

National Defense demands better protection to meet this threat

To every shipper, the protection measures employed by the warehouse he selects always are a primary consideration. Today, such protection assumes manifold importance—because every warehouse entrusted with the storage of products or materials directly or indirectly concerned with national defense, health or safety is a logical target for saboteurs.

That is why warehousemen throughout the country, realizing their responsibilities in relation to our preparedness activities, are "tightening up" on their protection measures by adopting or extending A.D.T. Electric Protection Services.

Look for the words "A.D.T. Service" in the listings and advertisements in this Directory. They give assurance that the warehouse is employing the most modern and efficient fire and burglary protection methods that science has devised.

A.D.T. Electric Protection Services include: Sprinkler Supervisory and Waterflow Alarm; Aero Automatic Fire Alarm; Manual Fire Alarm; Watchman's Central Station Reporting Service; Burglar Alarms (including Invisible Ray devices); Holdup Alarms. Descriptive booklets gladly supplied on request.

Defense Storage
Future Implications

(An Editorial)

THE recent appointment by the President of the Office of Production Management, a 4-man super council under the joint chairmanship of W. S. Knudsen and Sidney Hillman, takes the defense program out of the realm of "contemplated" into the "real thing". From now on, the peacetime way of doing things will be superseded by an "all-out" basis where legislative authority to act rather than advise will be delegated.

The new super council stems from the general dissatisfaction with the unproductiveness of the national defense program, all of which was brought out in the clear by Mr. Knudsen in his address before the National Association of Manufacturers last month.

As this kettle of dissatisfaction begins to boil and here and there the lid blows off to get some satisfactory Government action, there is a probability that if the kettle is kept boiling long enough, all phases tied in with the defense program will be satisfactorily settled.

For example, there is the question of storage space facilities for the vast amount of raw, partly finished and finished materials. The Government has intimated that public warehouses are to be given preference to new, Government-owned and constructed space. Public airing of this question has indicated that public warehouses are well prepared to handle the defense needs, and that only where space is inadequate will it be necessary to consider the leasing of distress space or to construct new buildings.

Despite this implied challenge to warehousemen to cooperate, or else—, when defense bids for storage come in, there is a feeling that any Government business is a headache, unremunerative and consequently something to avoid. The reasoning is that many of these commodities to be stored are going to stay a long time and will take the place of other tonnage, ordinarily good pay. That reasoning seems justified, especially when Government rates are out of line. However, a long-range thought on the question is most important. That question is: "Is it advisable to give the Government an excuse to build new storage facilities which after the emergency may continue to compete with public storage?"

The answer is obvious, but one that won't work out satisfactorily until warehousemen are given a reasonable break in respect to labor costs and competition from the building industry which is high-pressuring at Washington for new construction.

If the Government wants storage below the going rate, then it must, in order to make such storage attractive, limit proportionately the labor scale and power. Warehousemen are willing to cooperate, but they can't be expected to penalize themselves to this extent.

Tidewater Chain Enters Field Warehousing

The Chain of Tidewater Terminals and Inland Warehouses, with marine terminal-warehouse units at Boston, New York, Port of Newark, Elizabeth, N. J., Philadelphia, Norfolk, Va., and Buffalo, N. Y., has added a new link, the Tidewater Field Warehouses, Inc.

The formation of this newest corporate member of the Chain was brought about through the demands of business, industry and banking institutions along the entire Northeastern Seaboard for a field warehouse service to complement and round out the Terminal and Inland Warehouse facilities of the group.

This step has been contemplated for a period of 5 yrs., during which time a close study of the needs of business and industry for inventory financing has been made. The new corporation has been qualified in New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, the New England States and Virginia. It will specialize in what is known as the "Industrial Type" of field warehousing—that is, especially for the manufacturer, producer, jobber, wholesaler, importer and exporter.

The officers of Tidewater Field Warehouses, Inc., are Walter B. McKinney, president (president, the Chain of Tidewater Terminals and Inland Warehouses); Leo J. Coughlin, vice-president and general manager (vice-president and general manager of Boston Tidewater Terminals, Inc., Lincoln Tidewater Terminals, Inc., and Newark Tidewater Terminals, Inc.); Joseph E. Lowe, vice-president and director of sales (formerly associated with one of the largest field warehouse companies in America); John J. McMackin, vice-president and comptroller (formerly associated with a prominent field warehouse company); and E. L. Harold, secretary-treasurer (secretary-treasurer, the Chain of Tidewater Terminals and Inland Warehouses).

A.W.A. Plans for Golden Jubilee Meeting Well Under Way

The American Warehousemen's Assn. is planning fitting ceremonies to mark its 50th anniversary at the annual convention in Chicago, Feb. 11 to 14. The opening session at the Edgewater Beach Hotel, Tuesday morning, Feb. 11, will be historical in its nature, with a review of accomplishments and tributes to outstanding leaders and "old timers."

Joint sessions of the organization's 2 divisions, covering merchandising and refrigerating warehouses, will be held throughout Tuesday and Wednesday. Separate divisional conferences will follow all day Thursday and on Friday morning, with a final joint meeting of the 2 divisions Friday afternoon, Feb. 14. Divisional elections are scheduled for Friday morning and the association election at the concluding session that afternoon.

Social affairs will include a banquet Thursday evening, with dancing and other entertainment on the other evenings. Committees working out details of the program expected to have complete plans ready for announcement by mid-January.—Slawson.

A.W.I.'s 7th Annual Meeting at the Bismarck, Chicago

Plans have been completed for the 7th annual meeting of Associated Warehouses, Inc., to be held at the Bismarck Hotel, Chicago, on Jan. 17-18, just prior to the opening of the Canners' convention on Jan. 20.

A.W.I. has made rapid strides in the warehouse solicitation field since its organization in May, 1934, and its membership now numbers 52.

The Chicago meeting is expected to be the most successful this group has held and members will attend from all parts of the country for the purpose of formulating sales plans to make 1941 a record year.

N.F.W.A.'s 21st Birthday to Be Celebrated at Convention

The National Furniture Warehousemen's Assn. is planning a rousing 21st birthday anniversary celebration during the organization's annual convention at Hot Springs, Ark., Feb. 3 to 7. From the luncheon which opens the program on Monday, Feb. 3, until the breakfast on the final day, the birthday theme will predominate in all social affairs, including the formal banquet, the dances and other events for both men and women.

Business sessions of the National will start Monday afternoon, Feb. 3, and continue through Tuesday. Allied Van Lines will open its business meeting Wednesday morning and after a recess that afternoon will continue in session throughout Thursday and Friday.

Program details were incomplete at press time, but among speakers definitely arranged for will be Les Allman of the Fruehauf Trailer Co., who is slated to discuss "Public Relations Problems of the Warehouseman." Legislation affecting the warehouseman, social changes in a streamlined civilization which have a bearing on the business, and problems of business promotion are among topics to be considered by other speakers who will be announced later.

About 200 representatives of the organization are expected to attend the meeting which will be held at the Arlington Hotel. For those leaving St. Louis for Hot Springs on Sunday evening, Feb. 2, arrangements have been made for a private car to be attached to the regular train on the Missouri Pacific Railroad.—Slawson.

Santini Affiliates With United Van Lines

Santini Bros., Inc., New York City, better known in the warehousing and household goods moving industry as the Seven Brothers, have affiliated with the United Van Lines, Inc., Cleveland, linking their operations in a nationwide service.

Santini Bros., Inc., established since 1905, own and operate 5 fireproof warehouses in Greater New York, comprising over 3,000,000 cu. ft. of storage facilities and one of the largest fleet of vans on the Eastern seaboard. They were one of the first companies to inaugurate motor van service and were one of the original hauling members of the Allied Van Lines, Inc.

The Santini organization is unique in that each of the 5 warehouses and important departments such as traffic, storage, packing, shipping, maintenance, etc., are under the direct supervision of one of the 7 brothers or a son.

In 1933 they took over the Bronx agency for the Aero Mayflower Transit Co. and have actively participated in the advancement of the Mayflower Warehousemen's Assn. Their agency in the latter organization, it is stated, was discontinued because of its limited character in contrast to the large operations maintained by Santini Bros., Inc., throughout Greater New York and adjoining States.

The new agency comprises the entire metropolitan area. Offices for this purpose have been established at 11 W. 42nd St. The New York offices of the United Van Lines, Inc., have also been moved to the same quarters, affording close contact with the home office and the shipping public.

5.5 Per Cent Increase in Southwest Storage

C. E. Bradley, chairman of the warehouse and storage division of the Southwest Shippers Advisory Board, reports an anticipated increase of 5.5 per cent in tonnage moving through public warehouses during the first quarter of 1941. This increase is anticipated in lieu of the large movement of supplies and materials being stored in warehouses, ultimately to be shipped to the various Army camps and firms engaged in the manufacturing of National Defense materials.

Congress of American Industry Centers Its Attention on Defense Problem

Knudsen Tells 2,500 Delegates at 45th Meeting of the National Assn. of Manufacturers That All Is Not Well in the Rearmament Program. "Speed, Speed and More Speed" Asked

WILLIAM S. KNUDSEN, chief of production in the National Defense Advisory Commission, told some 2,500 industrial leaders attending the 45th Congress of American Industry, held Dec. 11 to 13 at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, by the National Association of Manufacturers, that all is not well in the rearmament program now under way. Production of warplanes, for example, is 30 per cent under earlier estimates; guns and machine guns are still in the tooling stage except for such capacity as was ready before the total defense drive got under way.

Mr. Knudsen reported that defense orders have been more than 85 per cent placed and that production from now on must be concentrated on. He called on industry and labor for "speed, speed and more speed" in the entire rearmament program. "The only way to get this program going is to get a concerted effort and a co-operative spirit—an incentive fired with the spirit of sacrifice from everybody from the bench to the manager's desk. If we can accomplish this," he stated, "our program is finished."

He made these specific recommendations:

1. That defense production be put on a war basis.

2. That manufacturers utilize their gift for organization and not order inventories which they do not need.

3. That industry co-operate with the Government in preventing price inflation.

4. That holders of defense orders forget earlier delivery schedules, in which there are cushions for strikes and acts of God, and give the Government what they can NOW in the way of advanced deliveries.

5. That every effort be made to retool plants ahead of schedule.

6. That more defense work be let out to sub-contractors in the interest of speed.

Mr. Knudsen's speech, made at the annual dinner, closing the convention, followed talks by other leaders not only in the industrial world, but in the fields of education, publishing and Government.

Industry's Platform

The delegates were offered a "Platform of American Industry" by the association, which urged co-operation of management and labor in the defense effort and pledged industry to do its full part in this work. The platform reflects 3 mos. of sounding of nationwide opinion by a resolutions committee of 100 leading industrialists and was adopted unanimously, after being presented as "the true industrial viewpoint," by Walter D. Fuller, president of the Curtis Publishing Co., later in the day chosen the next president of the association. H. W. Prentis, Jr., president of the Armstrong Cork Co., is the retiring president.

The platform listed a 9-point program to obtain proper defense "insurance" without forcing the United States to cut its living standards "to the extent suffered abroad," and stated that the Nation should begin now to map a program to avoid a possible depression after the defense emergency is over and millions of defense workers and soldiers are released. It also warned that living standards can be kept at present levels "only if labor, capital and management work together with a united purpose for production, more production and still more production."

The 9-point program follows:

1. Equitable relationship between agricultural prices and prices of other commodities.

2. Opportunity for management and labor to operate efficiently.

3. Taxation adjusted to meet at least non-defense expenditures and designed to facilitate the flow of private capital and remove uneconomic barriers to the production and distribution of needed goods and services.

4. Avoidance of production by government, of goods which private enterprise can furnish.

5. Recognition of the value of the profit motive.

6. Maintenance of such equitable wage rates and conditions of employment as will promote increased production and employment and a higher actual income to workers.

7. Encouragement of investment of private capital.

8. Preservation of competition.

9. Maintenance of consumers' buying power by improvements and economies to reduce cost of production and distribution.

The Price for Freedom

Mr. Prentis in his keynote address at the opening of the convention, entitled "Total Preparedness for America's Future," warned that 20th century liberals find "the flesh-pots of Egypt quite alluring. In their confusion of thought, they forget the lessons of past generations. They brush aside the indubitable fact that man must pay a definite price—a serious price—for the spiritual and intellectual satisfactions of self-government. He cannot exercise his freedom as an individual to choose those who will rule over him with the assurance that by some mysterious process the mortal men of his choice will suddenly become imbued with the divine qualities of omniscience and unselfishness. His reason must tell him that such miracles simply do not come to pass; that the government of men that he establishes will be subject to the same human shortcomings as he himself; and that, therefore, if he wishes to remain free, he must continue to carry a very substantial load of personal responsibility for his own physical well-being.

"For the more of his personal burden he encourages his self-appointed rulers to assume, the closer he brings the day when the rulers will be stronger than the ruled, and self-government will disappear. Oil and water will not form a chemical mixture. God simply

In the New Aero-Mayflower Met-L-Wood Semi-Ribless Van

The newest addition to the large fleet of modern vans used by Aero Mayflower Transit Company, nation-wide furniture movers

EQUIPMENT of the most dependable type is required by such firms as Aero Mayflower Transit Company in their nation-wide furniture moving service. Since 1930 they have been adding Met-L-Wood bodies to their fleet, because of their thorough satisfaction in service, low maintenance and efficient design.

Illustrated is the latest addition—the new semi-ribless van, mounted on a D-500 cab-over-engine International truck chassis.

Met-L-Wood Semi-Ribless construction employs 3/8" Met-L-Wood panels, metal on both sides of a strong plywood core, for the side walls. These panels, reinforced with a light pressed steel shape, run horizontally, giving added strength, while permitting maximum load space inside the van. All curved sections made of 16 gauge steel, parts fastened by Met-L-Wood patented split rivet method. The roof of this van is of 3/8" Met-L-Wood—metal on the outside only.

Met-L-Wood Corporation builds bodies complete or furnishes you with parts ready for your own assembly. Write us today for further information about modern, efficient van bodies.

did not make them that way. Similarly, if there is any law of human nature that has been proved time and time again, it is that control of a nation's economic affairs by public authority inevitably leads to the destruction of personal freedom."

As regards the question of the effect of war on the United States, Mr. Prentis stated: "If modern war be prolonged, the dislocations occasioned in industry become more and more difficult of adjustment to peacetime conditions. Hence, our entrance into war would in all likelihood result—unless we are extremely alert—in the emergence of economic controls on a national scale which would gradually undermine and ultimately destroy the precious values of personal freedom which our forefathers fought to establish 160 yrs. ago.

"American industry has repeatedly pledged its wholehearted support to the national defense program. It has moved swiftly to meet all the demands that have been made by government to date. But industry could do more if we are, in the opinion of government, actually faced with emergency war production. How fast industry diverts its efforts from production for normal needs to armament, depends upon how seriously government regards the immediate future. Whether production for Great Britain, or production for our own defense is the more important, is for government to decide. Whether the urgency is such as to demand industrial output on a 24-hr., 7-day basis, and the removal of all restrictive factors to the fullest possible armament production, government and only government can say. Much as they abhor war, American manufacturers will do their full part under any and every circumstance.

"But to speak candidly and not in a spirit of carping criticism, industry is today deeply concerned over the failure of government to develop those essential policies that experience in the World War indicates are imperative if our objective of production, more production and still more production, is to be speedily attained.

"First and foremost, there is lacking a clear definition of our defense objectives: What do we intend to protect? To what extent is the government proposing ultimately to reach out beyond those physical areas in which our national interests are directly at stake? Industry is deeply concerned about the lack of general coordination, the lack of delegated authority, the lack of long-range planning, which is not only essential to defense but also urgently needed to guard against the inevitable aftermath of the present armament boom.

"To date, the responsibility placed upon the production member of the Defense Commission has been far less than the public generally has been led to believe. He has been given only the authority to "approve" contracts for materials and equipment placed by the military services and no authority to follow through. The prime necessity today is the centralization of authority somewhere to expedite the determination by the responsible military and naval agencies of their respective defense needs.

"No fair-minded citizen wants or expects labor or the farmer or the manufacturer or any other group to bear more than its just burden of sacrifice in the present emergency, but an aroused public opinion will not long tolerate strikes that interfere with the production of defense materials, absurdly high labor union initiation fees, unreasonable demands for overtime pay, and curtailment of hours of work that would hamper the maximum use of existing defense production facilities."

Free Enterprise

Warning against the dangerous tendency of the times towards governmental planning, J. Howard Pew, national vice-president of the group, and president of the Sun Oil Co., said that without freedom, genuine progress cannot be achieved. "For a democratic government to destroy free enterprise is for the government to destroy itself," Mr. Pew emphasized.

"Planning as applied to the other fellow has always been tolerated; in fact, among those groups who do the planning for the other fellow, planning has been downright popular," he declared. But, he added, "there is no surer way of ruining a man than for someone else to plan out his life. There is no surer way of ruining a nation that for the government to plan for the lives and the activities of its people, for a nation can be no greater than are its people.

"The program of government planning and control invariably leads to dictatorship, and we have already gone halfway down that road. A recent analysis described our Federal Government as a maze of 10 departments, 133 bureaus, divisions, authorities, and agencies, and 68 independent establishments; altogether employing over a million persons. These agencies assume authority to make rules and orders which have the force of law."

A Tempting Prize

General Hugh S. Johnson, key speaker at the opening of the sessions, described America as "the most tempting prize in all this bankrupt and piratical world," as he analyzed the domestic scene in relation to national defense. "Modern war is no longer an affair of armies," he said. "It is a struggle to the death between economic systems. Ours is by all odds the strongest on earth—stronger than any probable combination of others."

Dynamically, he told the delegates that the United States "with its superior fiscal and other controls, properly mobilized and wisely administered, can aid its friends and subject its foes to an economic strangulation as deadly as any battlefield effort."

General Johnson, speaking of a National Defense Advisory Commission without sufficient "responsibility or authority," warned the manufacturers that "if this situation cannot be promptly remedied, this country—and especially its industry—is in immediate danger of experimental, radical and revolutionary tinkering. It may or may not produce an improvement in production. I think it will produce none. But it will leave our American capitalist and profits system of free enterprise in such a straitjacket that none of the industrialists of this generation will ever be able to recognize it again."

Continuing his analysis of the absence of authority in the defense commission, General Johnson contended that a leadership representing government is required to integrate defense industries for the maximum of efficiency in defense production. "Somebody must sit at the head of the table," he said. "He must have power to compromise conflicting demands. He must be able to explore all existing sources of supply and allocate them to the greatest need.

"Through a power of priorities, he must be able to support vastly increased speed of production by insuring an adequate and uninterrupted flow of finance, material, power, fuel, labor and transportation. He must have power to defer some uses and to advance others—to conserve, prevent waste and at all odds insure, where it is most needed, production and speed." He viewed the national defense program, "If wisely used," as the "greatest opportunity we have had in years to balance our economy and draw the whole Nation close through a feeling of mutual justice and fairness in a compact front against a common danger."

Malcolm Muir, chairman of the group's committee on Study of Depressions, stated that "it is a chronological fact of history that depressions have followed wars. Almost inevitably, major wars have been followed by serious depressions, usually of world-wide scope. The outbreak of the current war made it plain to thoughtful men that at least in some way and to some degree our American economy must become involved.

"The National Assn. of Manufacturers recognized in that situation a social duty. If depression is to be expected, or even feared, preparation should be made to save the American people from its worst effects."

Warning against the results of a "false prosperity," Mr. Muir outlined the precautions that must be taken in the performance of our armament program, if depression is to be avoided.

"The Nation, as a people, must consider the armament program's costs. We must plan how best to finance it. We must plan how industry can best do its production job, with emphasis on speed, efficiency, and quality as well as quantity. We must plan for the future, for America's economic life after the armament building is done."

To guard against "an increased spiral of rising prices," Mr. Muir declared that the Wages and Hours Act should be revised. "Costs, prices, and profits must be kept within reasonable limits and in economic balance," he said. "Government should practice every economy consistent with maximum defense effort. Industry asks that it avoid, as far as possible, 'fixed fee, cost plus' contracts since these tend to raise the cost of production. Various Government agencies should not bid competitively against each other for goods and materials. Procurement would better be consolidated in one Government purchasing agency.

"But especially, your committee recommends that the Government draw a sharp line between spending for defense and spending for all other purposes, and commends the Administration for its announced policy of reducing civil expenditures by postponing public works already authorized by Congress."

"By the end of the emergency phase of the defense period," Mr. Muir stated, "the country will need perhaps 20 or 30 billions of dollars worth of capital improvements, both producers' and consumers' durable goods. In the forefront of need will be housing, manufacturing plants to be converted to non-defense purposes, railroads to be modernized.

"If new industries are to appear and old ones to expand, the Securities Acts must be constructively amended so that investors can provide the capital needed for their birth and growth."

Dr. Carl Snyder, author of "Capitalism the Creator" and a past president of the American Statistical Assn., in his talk, "Economic Pitfalls of Totalitarianism," stated that each of the conspicuous totalitarian states has arisen directly out of the chaos of attempts towards state Socialism. This is true very distinctly, he stated, of Russia and of Germany, and to a lesser degree, of Italy. "And these essays into state Socialism in turn derive directly from a breakdown of the industrial system in these countries, either as a result of war, as in Russia, or, as in Germany, from such a depression as we have been going through in these United States in the last 11 yrs. As I see it there is a very significant parallelism here."

General Robert E. Wood, chairman of the board of Sears, Roebuck & Co., assailed the "perfectly fantastic hysteria," which, he said, swept America after the fall of France. He declared that Great Britain would not be conquered and that any competent military or naval expert will state that there is absolutely no danger of an invasion of the United States even if Germany is completely victorious.

Lewis D. Douglas, former Federal Director of the Budget and now president of the Mutual Life Insurance Co., New York, warned that if Germany swept the British fleet from the seas and dismembered the British Empire, the United States would be "the most vulnerable of nations." He charged that the Berlin-Rome-Tokio Axis is the avowed enemy of the United States and that only a nation "lulled to sleep with a false sense of security," could ignore this threat.

News from the Defense Front

Australian Wool Storage Bids Opened Dec. 23

THE Defense Supplies Corp. opened bids Dec. 23 for storage of 250,000,000 lbs. of British-owned Australian wool, while across the sea stevedores loaded bales on American and British bottoms and started the strategic war material on its hazardous voyage.

Proposals were not opened publicly, but were taken under advisement for thorough review. Probably 2 weeks would be necessary to check the bids, it was explained at the Defense Supplies Corp.

Although there has been no public statement from the Defense Supplies Corp., it was hinted strongly that contracts might be rejected should it be found that "opportunists," claiming "pull" in Washington through personal or influential connections, had tempted warehousemen to accept their services under agreements in which they would be reimbursed for furthering storage contracts.

Unlike the cotton storage proposal, no clause is contained in invitations for wool storage specifying that payment of fees to "outsiders" will not be tolerated. However, rumors of such activities in connection with wool storage have reached representatives of the Defense Supplies Corp. who agree that it may be necessary to take strong action before contracts are awarded. The Government reserves the right to reject any or all proposals.

The proposals, the opening date delayed several times by postponements due to revision of requirements, were to cover both single- and double-dumped bales. Perhaps two-thirds of the wool, it was said, will be double-dumped. The approximate weight of the double-dumped bale is 600 lbs. and the approximate dimensions are as follows: Length, 3 ft. 5 in.; breadth, 2 ft. 11 in.; depth, 2 ft. 9 in.; cubic feet, approximately 25.

The approximate weight of the single-dumped bale is 300 lbs. and the approximate dimensions are as follows: Length, 2 ft. 9 in.; breadth, 2 ft. 8 in.; depth, 2 ft. 7 in.; cubic feet, approximately 18.

Insurance brokers qualified to place and service insurance coverage were invited to submit proposals for insurance coverage on the 250,000,000 lbs. of wool. No form was provided for submission of proposals, but offers were asked, containing substantially the following specifications:

"Full fire and marine insurance on imports from Australia to ports and/or place in the United States.

"Policy to be in name of Defense Supplies Corp., and/or as agent. For account of whom it may concern. Loss, if any, payable to Defense Supplies Corp., or order.

"The insurance to attach from the time the wool becomes the risk of the Government at initial point of shipment and to cover continuously, thereafter, until delivered into store or warehouse at point of destination.

"By steamer and/or steamers and/or motor vessel and connecting conveyances by land or otherwise.

"Wool stowed under deck of ocean vessel to be insured 'Against all risks or loss or damage from any external cause (excepting such risks as are excluded by the American Institute of Marine Underwriters F.C. & S. and Striker's clauses in effect at time of shipment) including theft and/or pilferage, irrespective of percentage.'

"Including all risks as per foregoing clause on docks, wharves or elsewhere on shore and/or during land transportation, risks of collision, derailment, fire, lighting, sprinkler leakage, cyclones, hurricanes, earthquakes, floods, rising of navigable waters or any accident to the conveyance and/or collapse and/or subsidence of docks and/or structures and to pay a loss or damage caused thereby."

In addition, the policy shall include, subject to all its terms and conditions, as per "All risks of loss or damage from any external clause, etc." an acceptable extension covering the wool in warehouses in the United States after arrival at destination and shall continue to cover until the wool is no longer at the risk of the United States. Transfer by land or inland conveyance from one warehouse to another is to be held covered without additional premium.

The insurance may be written in dollars or pounds sterling by first-class financially responsible British companies as well as American companies. Alternative proposals were also requested, including war risk insurance.

For the benefit of underwriters the Defense Supplies Corp. will endeavor to obtain and transmit prompt cabled information as to the loading and dispatch of shipments and the provisional value at the earliest possible moment, it was said.

3 Yr. Transit Storage

The Central Traffic Assn. at a meeting on Dec. 19, gave its approval to amending tariffs so as to make available transit storage facilities up to a limit of 3 yrs. on the Australian wool to be imported by the D.S.C. The present limit is 1 yr. and this, it is stated, will continue to apply to wool for strictly private account. This action on the part of the railroads will not, as was commonly understood, commit the D.S.C. to a plan of shipping all the wool through Pacific Coast ports, although a substantial portion, as a result of the rail action, will go through West Coast gateways.

The wool cargo was scheduled to move between Dec. 15 and May 15. Its ports of entry will be the Atlantic ports of Boston, New York and Philadelphia, through which wool is normally imported, and the Pacific ports of San Francisco, Los Angeles and Portland.

Warehouses sharing the contract for storage must be United States Customs Bonded and meet the requirements of Class 3 warehouses under Article 919, Chapter XVII, Customs Regulations of 1937. Competing storage facilities in areas immediately adjacent to the ports of entry will draw the major share of the business, but warehouses in the interior also will be used as storage-in-transit points from which re-shipment may be made to Boston.

Warehousemen bidding for portions of the tonnage were required to submit current sworn financial statements and full information as to the capacity and type of warehousing facilities, as well as photographs of their plants.

No proposals will be accepted which specify that wool be delivered by a specified date or that it remain in storage for a specified length of time. Neither will any bid be considered conditioned upon a specified minimum quantity of wool. Warehousemen whose proposals are accepted will be expected to meet all requirements and execute the storage agreement within 15 days from the date of acceptance.

The rate offered for storage per bale per month will not be the sole criterion, but other factors will be considered, for instance, insurance rates.

The Defense Supplies Corporation—a recently-formed subsidiary of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation—will be responsible for the shipping, warehousing and handling. While the agreement with the British Government provided that space on the established British shipping lines running between Australia and the United States would be used so far as available, it is expected that most of the wool will move in American bottoms.

If the warehouseman is located within the switching limits of the port of entry, the Corporation will notify him as soon as possible, and, in any event, within 3 days prior to the arrival of wool shipped by water. It will be his responsibility to remove the wool from the pier within the time it is allowed on the pier without penalty. The Corporation will reimburse the warehouseman for expenses, including wharfage, loading and transportation from pier to warehouse.

If the warehouseman is located outside the switching limits of the port of entry, the wool will be delivered by rail or truck and the warehouseman will, if requested by the Corporation to do so, pay the inbound transportation cost, including the ocean freight where through bills of lading are used, for which he will be reimbursed by the Corporation. He will also absorb, either by paying the carrier directly or reimbursing the Corporation, any storage-in-transit charge which may be in effect at the time the wool is shipped from such storage point.

Warehousemen will be required to break the bands and separate any double-dumped bales received and store them as separate bales.

Compensation of the warehouseman for receiving, marking, and delivering into cars or trucks, including labor, first month's storage and furnishing all documents required, will be 35 cents per bale.

If requested to do so, warehousemen will be paid 15 cents per bale for sampling, including sewing or coopering of bales after samples are drawn; 15 cents for weighing; and 15 cents for ranging for any purpose. Any other services performed at the request of the Corporation will be at the published rate of the warehouse.

While proposals for storage will be accepted from any operator of warehouse facilities, the Government directs attention to the fact that the commodity will reach this country "in grease"—a circumstance which may make it undesirable to some prospective bidders. —Manning.

Budd Receives Highest Engineering Award

Ralph Budd, president of the C.B. & Q.R.R. and a member of the Advisory Commission to the Council of National Defense in charge of Transportation received on Jan. 15 the John Fritz Medal devoted to the recognition of distinguished contributions in the field of applied science, at the annual meeting of the American Society of Civil Engineers, New York City.

Ralph Budd

The John Fritz Medal was awarded to Mr. Budd primarily for his active administration of transcontinental rail systems, his distinguished public service in solving difficult transportation problems at home and abroad, and as the pioneer whose vision of lightweight trains has revolutionized the transportation system of the country.

East Indies Rubber at Los Angeles by June 1

A minimum of 250,000 bales of reserve rubber will be stored in Los Angeles public warehouses, beginning about June 1, 1941, representatives of the Rubber Reserve Co. made known to Los Angeles warehousemen, following completion of a study of the storage situation in that city on Dec. 16.

Representatives of the Rubber Reserve Co., composed of Goodyear, Goodrich, Firestone, General, and United States companies, conferred with Los Angeles public warehousemen during the week of Dec. 9 on the matter of storing reserve rubber stocks in Los Angeles and announced that at least 250,000 bales may be expected to be stored in local warehouses.

Operators of the score or more of public warehouses in Los Angeles concurred that storage space for that amount of baled rubber from the East Indies can be provided without difficulty. Initial shipments of the rubber, which the Rubber Reserve Co. proposes to store in key cities as a precaution against any future war-induced rubber shortage or cutting of the East Indies supplies by involvement of the Dutch East Indies into the war, are expected to be landed at Los Angeles Harbor about June 1.

Allotments of rubber storage space are to be handled under an equitable arrangement to be worked out by the Los Angeles warehouses interested in obtaining a share of the business.—Herr.

Big Rubber Cargo Brought On Dutch Passenger Vessel

The large Dutch liner Johan Van Oldenbarnevelt, which arrived at Los Angeles late December, was reported to have brought one of the largest single rubber cargoes ever loaded at the East Indies. With the commodity even crammed into her passenger quarters and the dining salons, the vessel was estimated to have more than 12,000 tons of crude rubber aboard. The shipment proceeded from the Coast for discharge at New York.

Canada Issues Emergency Measures on Imports

The Canadian Government on Dec. 2 adopted a series of emergency measures, provisionally effective immediately, prohibiting the importation from non-Empire areas of a wide range of products regarded as non-essential, limiting the importation of additional imports by license, establishing domestic excise taxes to restrict Canadian production of prohibited or restricted articles, and removing or reducing import duties on many products of United Kingdom origin.

The declared purpose of the import control measures is to conserve foreign exchange for the purchase of essential war materials.

The products which may not be imported into Canada include the following: cocoa and chocolate preparations; prepared cereal foods; nuts, processed and canned fruits and vegetables; oysters and crab; manufactured tobacco; spirits and wines; soaps and perfumes; and automobiles.

Licenses are issued for the importation of the following: unmanufactured tobacco motor trucks; raw silk and silk products; and petroleum products.

An import permit will not be required for goods passing in transit in bond through Canadian territory to a foreign country. An import permit will be required for articles which have been returned to Canada after having been temporarily exported for repairs, and also for articles imported into Canada temporarily for further manufacture, repairs, test or adjustments, or for any other temporary purpose.

Articles on prohibited list ordered prior to Dec. 2 will be admitted up to end of Feb., 1941, upon satisfactory proof being submitted, that is, full information supported by a certified copy of the purchase order and such other documentary evidence as may be required to be presented to the Collector of Customs at port of Canadian destination.

U. S. Munitions Plants in the Southwest Planned

Munitions plants in the Southwest and West of the Mississippi River are being planned for 1941 under the War Dept.'s program to build a billion dollar chain of such plants. Preliminary surveys for plant sites have been started and Congress, it is stated, will be asked early next session for funds. These plants will cost several hundreds of millions of dollars. The 60 plants scheduled for construction in 1940 are to be located between the Mississippi River and the Allegheny Mountains.

3 Army Bureaus for Food Purchases

Donald M. Nelson, co-ordinator of defense purchases, has announced a new plan for the purchase of food for the army. This will be through centralized bureaus in each of 3 sections of the country, namely, San Francisco for West Coast products such as canned fruit and canned salmon; Chicago for canned meats, vegetables and flour; and New York for coffee, sugar, tea, spices, preserves and manufactured food.

Specifications for canned food are being simplified. Army inspectors will check canned foods before shipment from central warehouses. Most canned food will be bought in large No. 10 sizes as a move to conserve tin.

Army Acquires Kansas City Space for Storage

The quartermaster corps of the Army has taken over 4 floors of the 12-story National Bellas Hess, Inc., building in Kansas City, Mo., and will have possession of the entire structure, powerhouse and garage—total floor space 635,000 sq. ft.—by June 1 for an enlarged depot.

National Bellas Hess, dealing in wearing apparel, sold the buildings and 22 acres of land to the Government for $1,400,000. It will maintain its headquarters in Kansas City, however. The Government expects to use the building both as an army supply warehouse and purchasing depot for supplies.

National Bellas Hess will be out of the building by Jan. 31 and 2 other tenants by June 1.—S. Smith.

Kansas City, Mo., Anticipates Big Defense Business

With Kansas City, Mo., assured of a large amount of national defense work through contracts to local manufacturers, establishment of an enlarged quartermaster corps depot and location in the Greater Kansas City area of ammunition and bomber factories, officers of the merchandise division of the Kansas City Warehousemen's Assn., decided to make a survey of public warehouse space.

Frank Cole, president of the Missouri association and long active in the local organization, said a check of 14 public warehouses handling general merchandise showed a total floor space of 2,000,000 sq. ft. Of that amount, about 750,000 sq. ft. will be available for any increase in the need, he said.

That space is sufficient to meet the needs of the business boom which Kansas City expects to result from the Government's decision to build the $10,000,000 bomber plant for North American Aviation, Inc., and the $7,500,000 ammunition plant for the Remington company.

The warehouses included in the survey included no household or cold storage places or warehouses owned and operated by private businesses.—S. Smith.

Army Base on Seattle Waterfront

Property of the Pacific Terminals, Inc., wharves, outbuildings and the terminals themselves, Seattle, Wash., are being taken over by the Army which will spend more than $1,000,000 on a new base there. A contract to purchase 21 acres of waterfront property, which has been owned by the terminals corporation, involves initial expenditure of $793,000 therefor.

Included in the sale to the Quartermaster Corps of Army is the old terminal of the Pacific Steamship Co., one of the finest structures of its type when built.

The Army will erect a number of new warehouses as well as other structures and will remodel a number of the existing wharves for distribution of army supplies to all the forts and other army stations of the Pacific Northwest and Alaska, in addition to the C.C.C. camp at Fort Lewis. The new layout will be under the direction of Lt. Col. C. O. Thrasher.—Litteljohn.

Oakland Denies Army Request for Whses., Wharves, Etc.

The Oakland Port Commission has turned thumbs down on an Army proposal that certain sections of Oakland's outer harbor be taken as a site for a supply base. The Quartermaster Corps asked for all frontage north of Transit Street, including 1,400 ft. of wharves, 140,000 sq. ft. of warehouses, and all of the Key Route basin. The Army plans the establishment of a $20,000,000 supply base in the East Bay and the space described was requested as a suitable site.

James J. McElroy, chairman of the Oakland Commission, denied the request and suggested that the Army establish its supply depot north of the Bay Bridge approach on 1720 acres of submerged land. Mr. McElroy describes this land—which would require reclamation—as "one of the choicest portions of the port marked for future development". The Port Commission considers it would be "unwise" for the Army to take over the outer harbor facilities which are regarded as the most profitable section of the Port of Oakland, and claims that the section recommended for development by the Army is "readily accessible to deep water and trackage facilities in a similar manner to that of the Navy in the middle Harbor."—Gidlow.

San Francisco Warehouses Petition for Defense Materials

Four warehouse operators in San Francisco were heard (Dec. 10) by the California Railroad Commission in a petition to handle certain materials involved in national defense preparations. Haslett Warehouse Co., Gibralter Warehouse Co., and Farnsworth & Ruggles sought a certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing them to store cotton for the Commodities Credit Corp., and raw materials for the United States Government in connection with the national defense program.

The San Francisco Warehouse Co., already authorized to store the surplus cotton and one of the largest warehousers of that commodity in this region, made application also to store strategic raw materials used in defense activities. A hearing was held Dec. 10, evidence taken, and it is understood that a decision will be handed down as rapidly as the machinery of the Commission allows, as the warehouse operators stressed the urgency of their request.—Gidlow.

San Francisco Warehouse Survey Completed

The survey of available warehouse space in the San Francisco Bay area has been completed and will soon be available to the National Defense Advisory Commission. This was made at the request of J. F. Marias by L. A. Bailey, secretary of the warehouse group. The data is now in the hands of the State Board of Harbor Commissioners and the task will be to analyze same and list the available space in category form. It is believed that the breakdown will be in 5 or 6 classifications, according to size, construction, track facilities, accessibility to water, whether single or multiple stories, insurance rating, etc.

There is no doubt that San Francisco will be able to provide adequate warehousing for any emergency. The problem is to prevent too large an accumulation of "dead storage"' such as cotton, now making heavy demands on San Francisco warehouse facilities. Other products include hemp, rubber, wool, tin and other base metals such as manganese ore, chrome ore, and some iron.

Another interesting aspect of the warehouse situation is that the Haslett and San Francisco warehouses have each signified their intention of leasing 400,000 sq. ft. of additional space in the Bay Area.

The Battery Street warehouse of the Haslett Warehouse Co., while being loaded with Government cotton last month, was swept by fire which will put the building out of commission for over a month. The building was recently leased by the company which also leased and has since filled with cotton, the old Ferry Bldg. Post Office and a warehouse at 19th and Harrison Streets.—Gidlow.

Los Angeles Storage Space Ample

Vacant space in Los Angeles warehouses in December totaled 1,500,000 sq. ft., exclusive of approximately 500,000 sq. ft. available in buildings other than warehouses which could be converted for warehousing, according to an analysis prepared by W. H. Daum, president of W. H. Daum & Staff, analytical industrial realtors of Los Angeles.

The 1,500,000 sq. ft. referred to, Mr. Daum reported, pertain only to 5 of the larger warehouses in Los Angeles proper. They do not include numerous smaller vacant warehouses, nor the available space in the Los Angeles Harbor District (San Pedro and Wilmington) where 3 major merchandise warehouse firms operate.

Los Angeles is already so well provided with actual and potential warehousing facilities, that Mr. Daum anticipates little or no change in the construction of warehouses during 1941 over the construction total for 1940.—Herr.

4 Diesel Electrics for Southern Railway

The Jacksonville offices of the Southern Railway System have just announced the purchase of 4 Diesel-electric streamlined locomotives to be used immediately in cutting the running time between Jacksonville and Cincinnati. The new locomotives are built in 2 units, each having 2 electric generators operated by Diesel engines. These generators develop 1,000 hp. each, which brings the locomotives into the 4,000 hp. class. Power is transmitted to the wheels by electric motors, 4 to each unit.—Lord.

Are PALLET SHIPMENTS

A System permitting handling and shipping in unit loads will reduce distribution costs

Note how boards missing on the bottom of these pallets make for uneven piling and damage to the cases being handled. (Courtesy, Baker Raulang.)

Sheet material properly strapped to a simple pallet is being handled both on intra-plant, inter-plant, and in interstate shipments. (Courtesy, Automatic Transportation Co.)

CONSIDERABLE progress was made in 1940 in the use and application of fork trucks. There is no doubt that 1941's outstanding achievement in materials handling will be the palletizing of unit load shipments, not only in intra-plant, but in inter-plant shipments and interstate commerce.

Now is the time to reduce the experimental cost and make for greater flexibility and interchangeability of pallets between shippers and consumers.

For the past 2 or 3 yrs., much has been said and written regarding the fork truck and pallet system of materials handling. A number of articles in DandW have touched on this system. As materials handling editor, I have felt the need of better coordination within the industry. This would bring about a fuller understanding of the importance of pallets as a part of this system.

Fork trucks are made by a number of manufacturers, and with various types of power, such as storage-battery, gasoline, and gas-electric. The types of forks and fork arrangements that can be applied to these trucks are many.

The manufacturers of fork trucks have designed and built their equipment to take care of a wide variety of operations and load capacities. Naturally, they have devoted most of their time to the development of this equipment. It is also apparent that in selling their equipment, they should stress the advantages of their particular unit, and so, in their educational campaigns and publicity, they have educated the buying public to the use of fork trucks, as such. However, little attention has been given to the construction of the pallets to be used with fork trucks. As a result, the truck manufacturers and their sales organizations, have not, in most cases, been able to furnish the pallets along with the trucks.

Until recently, pallets were considered more or less of a minor item. Each customer purchasing a truck conferred with the individual salesman selling the truck.

Possible? . . .

By MATTHEW W. POTTS
Materials Handling Editor

Between the 2 of them, pallets which seemed best suited to the need were developed. As the accompanying illustrations show there is a wide variety of pallet construction. These illustrations are only a few of the many which have been developed.

The next problem confronting the new user, was to procure these pallets. Some customers were equipped to build their own. Others were required to go out to some local mill or other sources to have these pallets built.

Few were experienced to say just how the pallets should be built, or what would be the best shape, size and design to standardize on.

In spite of the many obstacles which had to be overcome, the use of fork trucks and pallets grew beyond expectations, because the principle was sound. However, the variety of pallets which had been developed, built and discarded, would fill a good size book.

Pallets have been built, ranging from $2.00 to $8.00 apiece, for the same size, namely, a 3 by 4 ft., two-faced pallet. Smaller ones were cheaper; larger ones could be more expensive.

Many innovations were tried, such as all-steel, steel and wood, and all wood pallets. Some of these have stood up exceptionally well in service, while others have failed completely. The accompanying illustrations and their descriptive captions show a few of the many pallets which have been developed for various handling operations. Note that the construction is in no way standardized.

This chaotic condition has impeded the fork-truck and pallet development. The variation in the cost of pallets, and the difficulty of obtaining them, under some circumstances, has acted as a deterrent to the making of some installations, particularly in connection with inter-plant and interstate commerce shipments. Many shippers have desired to use the pallet system for both intra-plant and inter-plant shipments, but have hesitated because of the cost of pallets.

During the past year, the writer has interviewed many executives, in an "off-the-record" manner, in order to obtain their views regarding this important subject. In almost every instance, the opinion was that it would pay to pack and ship unit loads on pallets, providing the pallets could be obtained cheaply and strong enough to carry the load from one point to another, and at the same time, have a usable value in the receiver's plant handling methods.

The amount that each shipper felt could be paid for such a convenience varied in accordance with the product handled. However, all agreed that it would be cheaper and quicker to handle with pallet unit loads than by the present method of hand-handling and stacking in cars, trucks, etc.

It is easy to visualize many products going to unit load shipments on pallets to eliminate handling. Again, the illustrations show what has been accomplished in this respect, with resulting economy both in the cost of handling and damage to materials in transit.

For example, when produce is canned at canning plants, it could be placed upon and fastened to reasonably-priced pallets at the point of manufacture. These could be placed in stock, or immediately loaded into cars and trucks, without rehandling each individual package. At the consumer's warehouse, these unit loads could be unloaded from the cars or trucks, and placed in stock, as one unit, without rehandling. They could also be taken from stock and distributed to other points, as a unit load, without rehandling. The elimination of these handling costs would soon pay for the additional cost of palletizing unit loads.

The same is true in the handling of flour and other bagged materials; metals, in sheets, rolls and bundles; and other commodities, as illustrated herewith. As this method of handling grows, warehousemen will be required to obtain the proper equipment for handling pallet loads. Freight terminals, marine terminals, etc., will also need such equipment. Now is the time to survey what is required and to determine the most economical size and capacity of unit.

requires cooperation with lift truck manufacturers, the shippers, the common carriers, the pallet manufacturers, the industrial plant managers, etc.

In the November issue we gave a comprehensive review of the "Materials Handling Handbook," which dealt largely with the trucks and their application.

In this article, we are stressing the importance of pallets, and we are hoping in future articles to present details of pallet construction. If our readers have had either satisfactory or unsatisfactory experiences with pallets, it would be helpful if they would send in the details, so that we can coordinate these experiences for the benefit of our readers, as a whole.

As stated earlier in this article, until recently, little thought had been given to the matter of pallets. In talking to the representatives of the fork truck industry, there seems to be a wide variety of opinions as to how pallets should be obtained. It is apparent that there is a need for some corrective measures to be taken, so that the truck manufacturers, and the users will be able to obtain pallets quickly and economically. One of the most frequent difficulties in connection with a

Move Afoot for 9 New Terminals Along the Tennessee River

A meeting was held at Decatur, Ala., on Dec. 20 with the objective of forming a compact between the States of Tennessee and Alabama for the construction of 9 up-to-date river terminals at points in both States along the Tennessee River. Definitely chosen as sites for terminals are Knoxville, Chattanooga, Decatur, Florence-Sheffield-Tuscumbia, Ala., Guntersville, Ala., and Savannah, Tenn. Terminals will also probably be built at South Pittsburg and Dayton, Tenn., and at Charleston, Tenn., on the Hiwassee River, a tributary of the Tennessee. Among men who were at the meeting are C. T. Barker, Navigation Superintendent of the Tennessee Valley Authority, and Earl P. Carter of Chattanooga. It is reported that Governor Cooper of Tennessee is favoring the project.

Uniform Wharfage Rates at Boston

Uniform wharfage rates of 50 cents per ton will become effective Jan. 15 at all piers in the Boston Harbor. Heretofore, the commodity list of top wharfage ranged from 40 cents to over $1 a ton. The new standardized rate represents little change for most commodities under the varied rates now in effect, except at the Commonwealth Pier, where the rate has been 25 cents.

Nicholson's Newark-Boston Service Authorized

The Nicholson Universal Steamship Co. has received authority from the U. S. Maritime Commission for the establishment of a freight tariff, class and commodity, between Newark, N. J., and Boston. Tariff publication, consummating such authorization, was established Dec. 31.

Tariffs applicable to Nicholson's truck-water-truck service have been filed with the I.C.C. effective as of Jan. 9, 1941. The first sailing took place Jan. 13 from the Port Newark terminal.

The service will be available for shippers within a 25-mile radius of Newark and Boston, with 2 trucking firms, one at each end, providing door-to-door pickup and delivery. If traffic warrants, 3 sailings weekly, or daily trips, will be made, according to W. L. McDonald, division general manager.

Morgan Line Assailed For Ending Boston Run

Representative John W. McCormack, Democrat, of Massachusetts, said recently that unless the Morgan Line continued service to Boston and New England ports from New York, he would urge establishment of a new competing line or request the Government to operate competing vessels.

Mr. McCormack, House majority leader, in a statement, "severely condemned" the line for discontinuing its New York-New England-Boston service, remarking:

"For years the ports of Texas, Norfolk, Va., and Boston have been excellent customers of the Morgan Line. Those business interests have loyally supported the line by giving it their freight and helped build up the line.

"We now find the line has no loyalty itself," he added.

Mr. McCormack said continuance of the service was vital to national defense, particularly in the expeditious delivery of cotton to New England plants working on government contracts.

He proposed that business men who had been using the line "get together, try to raise enough money to charter or purchase vessels from the Maritime Commission" and compete with the Morgan Line "even in its New York service."

"Such a course," he continued, "would make Texas, Gulf, New England and Atlantic Coast ports independent of remote control."

In the event the line refused resumption of service or private interests failed to raise funds for operation of Maritime Commission vessels, Mr. McCormack declared, "it is my intention to ask the Maritime Commission to operate and maintain a line."

St. Lawrence Seaway Project Assailed

A resolution pledging that the New York State Waterways Assn. would "vigorously reaffirm its opposition to the St. Lawrence seaway project" was adopted by 100 delegates to the association's 31st annual convention held in Hotel St. George, Brooklyn, N. Y., Dec. 13.

The organization, it was resolved, would "use every appropriate means at its disposal to inform Congress, other legislative bodies and the public of the devastating effect the construction of the seaway would have upon labor, transportation and established port and terminal facilities of the United States."

Any effort "to further the project by the appropriation of any further funds by executive order" was condemned, and "the subterfuge of trying to classify the seaway as an emergency defense project" was deplored. The resolution stated that in fact "an undertaking which could not be completed within 6 yrs. is not an urgent necessity, and, furthermore, the seaway, dams and locks would be most vulnerable to air attack and sabotage, thereby completely eliminating its entire effectiveness from a defense standpoint."

George MacDonald, head of the Federal Motorship Corp., Buffalo, who was re-elected president, bitterly opposed the seaway project in his annual address. "Like Banquo's ghost, it will not stay submerged," he said.

He also denounced the Wheeler-Lea bill, which places control of waterborne commerce, except for bulk cargo transportation, under the Interstate Commerce Commission. With that legislation in effect, he declared, Mid-West shippers and consumers would be asked to support the St. Lawrence project "as a means of providing low-cost transportation of imports and exports in foreign bottoms which will be free from the rate control of the I.C.C."

Frank H. Macy, of Rochester, who was elected 5th vice-president, praised the Democratic Senators who voted against the St. Lawrence project in 1934. They had "refused to betray their constituents," he said, "by voting in favor of the St. Lawrence waterway treaty, which project was unjustified as a Passamaquaddy or Florida ship canal, and . . . would be calamitous to the economical welfare of the country at large."

Other officers elected were: A. C. Welsh, Brooklyn; C. H. Callaghan, of New York; B. D. Tallamy, of Buffalo, and John M. Gill, of Oswego, first to 4th vice-presidents in the order named. Herman R. Moch, of Rensselaer, was elected treasurer.

Ship Industry Opens Meeting in New Orleans

A record number of persons associated with the marine industry on the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf Coasts, as well as the Great Lakes and inland waterways, gathered in New Orleans for the American Merchant Marine Conference. The keynote of the conference, which is held annually under the auspices of the Propeller Club of the United States, was the relation of American shipping and the shipbuilding and repair industry to national defense.

Rear Admiral Emory S. Land, U.S.N. (retired), chairman of the Maritime Commission, was the principal speaker at the conference's annual dinner. T. A. Scott, of Merritt-Chapman & Scott, of New York, and president of the Propeller Club, was toastmaster.

Comdr. Howard Vickery, U.S.N., a member of the Maritime Commission, who has directed the government's shipbuilding program, spoke on "Efficiency of the New American Merchant Marine," and C. H. C. Pearsall, vice-president of the Atlantic, Gulf & West Indies S.S. Lines, and a former president of the club, discussed "Another Eventful Year in American's Shipping History."

Other speakers were: Frank J. Taylor, president of the American Merchant Marine Institute, topic, "American Merchant Marine and Its Relations to National Defense"; Lachlan Macleay, president of the Mississippi Valley Assn., "The Building of Our Inland Waterways for National Defense"; A. T. Wood, president of the Lake Carriers' Assn., "Great Lakes Shipping and National Defense"; Rear Admiral R. R. Waesche, commandant of the United States Coast Guard, "The Coast Guard's Role in the National Defense Program," and H. Gerrish Smith, president of the National Council of American Shipbuilders, topic, "The Part the Shipbuilding Industry is Playing in the National Defense Program."

FROM The Capital

Helpers and Loaders Under I.C.C. Hours

Based on Examiner R. W. Snow's recommendations, the Interstate Commerce Commission is expected to announce soon, hearings to determine regulations to govern loaders and helpers' hours of employment.

The proposal would embrace these employment categories in common, contract and private carrier fields. Drivers in interstate commerce already have been placed under I.C.C. regulation as to maximum hours.

Work classifications not included in these groups within the trucking industry would, under Snow's proposal, remain under jurisdiction of the wage-hour administration.

Examiner Snow's recommendations were based on the conclusion that helpers and loaders "perform duties which materially affect the safety of operation of motor vehicles in interstate or foreign commerce, devote a substantial part of their time to that work and are subject to the Commission's jurisdiction under section 204(a) of the Act." He concluded that the term "safety of operation," as pertaining to motor carriers, meant just that, and the Commission has the power to prescribe qualifications and maximum hours of service for such employes.

He reasoned further, that employes of motor carriers and private carriers of property whose duties affect the safety of operation of motor vehicles, involving merely the exercise of supervisory functions and of judgment, are not subject to the Commission's jurisdiction.

In the cases of mechanics and other garage employes, and despatchers, Examiner Snow found that such employes are not subject to jurisdiction of the Commission.

Discussing the relationship of "loaders" to "safety of operations," the examiner said:

"All common and contract carriers of property employ men to load motor vehicles. The large carriers have terminals or platform crews who do nothing but load and unload motor vehicles, while the smaller carriers usually require the drivers to do a great deal, if not all, of this type of work.

"The evidence shows that a motor vehicle must be properly loaded in order that it may be safely operated on the highways of the country. If a greater weight is loaded on one side of the motor vehicle than on the other, the vehicle has a tendency to tip when rounding curves. The weight of the cargo must be correctly distributed over the axles of the motor vehicle both from the standpoint of safety and from the standpoint of complying with the laws of the several States. . . . It may be that a further hearing will result in evidence showing that safety of operation will not be improved by prescribing qualifications or maximum hours of service for loaders and if that be true the Commission may find that they are not subject to its jurisdiction."

Examiner Snow related that there is no evidence as to the number of accidents prevented by helpers or the number of accidents caused by the failure of the helper to properly perform his duties.

"It is clear, however," Snow said, "that the duties performed by a helper directly affect safety of operation and that he devoted a substantial part of his time to such work. It is further clear that a driver and a helper engaged in the operation of an over-the-road motor vehicle, at least, must be on duty the same number of hours. It is logical, therefore, that they should be subject to the same regulations governing maximum hours of service."

Employes of common and contract carriers engaged in the transportation of money, securities and other valuables, whose sole duty is to guard the cargo, do not affect safety of operation and should not be subject to I.C.C. regulation, he found.—Manning.

Want 30-Cent Minimum Truck Pay Raised

A movement has been started to establish a minimum wage for motor carrier employes above the 30-cent minimum now in effect. A conference between Federal truck and bus officials has been held and the next step will be with labor and management representatives conferring on the question of creating one or more committees to study the question with a view to making recommendations for a permanent minimum wage.

New Rules on Moving of Govt. Employes

The new rules prescribed for over-the-road moving of household effects of Government officers and employes fix by law a maximum of 5,000 lbs., beyond which the employes or officers must pay for themselves. The 5,000-lb. maximum applies to the actual weight of the goods to be shipped. When prepared for shipment by rail, the allowable weight is computed at 80 per cent of the combined weight, and when prepared for shipment by water, at 50 per cent of the combined weight. Actual weight, however, is allowed when shipping by motor carrier. Thus, with packing containers, the allowable actual weight would be 10,000 lbs. by water; 6,250 lbs. by rail, and 5,000 lbs. by motor truck.

Shipments are to be made on Government bills of lading whenever possible. Otherwise, reimbursement shall be made to the employe for transportation expenses actually and necessarily incurred within the limitations prescribed by the regulations.

Cotton Warehousing Bids Deferred to Feb. 1

The Dept. of Agriculture has announced that in order to conform to the request contained in Senate Resolution 337, of Dec. 2, 1940, the date for the acceptance of the competitive bids which the Commodity Credit Corp. has received for the storage of Government stocks of cotton, has been deferred from Dec. 16, 1940, as set forth in the invitation for bids, to Feb. 1, 1941. The Senate resolution had requested that bids not be accepted until there has been an opportunity for Congress to consider the subject.

I.C.C. Outlaws Proportional Rates Below Local Charges

The I.C.C. early in December found unlawful and ordered canceled all rail and truck proportional rates which are lower than prevailing local rates, and which apply on less-than-carload traffic that is part of a larger through shipment from or to a 3rd point. Proportional rates falling within this category must be canceled on or before Feb. 28, 1941. A proviso, however, permits any interested party to request a hearing on the lawfulness of any rate or rates affected by the order. Such requests must be filed with the I.C.C. by Jan. 10, and must specify the rate or rates in question by tariff, page and item number, as well as the commodity or commodities to which and the points between which the rates apply. Any hearings on such requests are expected to begin some time in March, 1941.

The order did not cancel proportional rates that specifically are limited for application on movements where the same unit of shipment is maintained from the initial points of origin to the ultimate destinations.

Wants Federal Power When States Fail

Congress should remove all unnecessary State motor vehicle restrictions that impede the flow of interstate commerce, according to recommendation made late in November to the Interstate Commerce Commission by the Detroit Board of Commerce.

The Commission has been conducting a national investigation into the question of whether there is need for the Federal Government to enact legislation fixing the extent of limitations that may be involked by State laws. The Board of Commerce, in its survey of the Detroit situation, finds that a large part of its industries are using and requiring trucks and trailers which exceed the dimensions permitted in restricted areas such as Kentucky and Texas.

The Board asks that the power to regulate vehicle sizes and weights be delegated to the Interstate Commerce Commission by Congress and that the prescription of actual dimensions be deferred until full hearings have developed the situations existing in the various areas throughout the country. It is realized that physical character of the highways as well as the economic and industrial needs of various sections will differ widely. Therefore, the Detroit recommendation suggests that the Federal power be exercised only where the States themselves have gone beyond what is necessary and reasonable in restricting the flow of interstate commerce in motor vehicles.

It is pointed out that numerous Detroit manufacturers having national defense contracts rely heavily on highway transportation for supplies of materials and that some of them are now feeling the pinch of State barriers which hinder full use of available equipment. Legislatures which will shortly convene in many States are expected to be presented with the customary flood of bills sponsored by the competitors and enemies of motor carrier transportation. It is to such unwarranted attacks the Board feels the Congress may profitably call a halt in the interest not only of national defense production, but of normal commercial traffic.

Overtime Payable Regardless Of Union Contracts

The obligation to pay time and one-half after 40 hrs., under the Fair Labor Standards Act, is not voided by the existence of a union contract calling for a workweek of more than 40 hrs. without the payment of overtime—except in certain instances—Colonel Philip B. Fleming, Administrator of the Wage and Hour Division, U. S. Department of Labor, has warned.

"Since the requirement that time and one-half be paid after 40 hrs. became effective on Oct. 24, we have received many inquiries from union members, business agents, and employers about the status of union contracts calling for a longer workweek without the payment of overtime," Colonel Fleming explained.

"A clause providing for a workweek of more than 40 hrs. without the payment of overtime does not relieve the employer of the necessity of paying time and one-half in accordance with the provisions of the Act.

"Such a clause will have no legal effect, although the rest of the contract may stand.

"The Wage and Hour Division will not give weight to such a clause in making an inspection to determine whether the law is being complied with by an employer. The standards fixed in the Act may not be lowered by any kind of agreement."

Under Section 7(b) of the Act employees working under agreements providing for an absolute maximum of 1,000 hrs.' work in any 26-week period or 2,000 hrs.' work in 52 weeks may be worked up to 12 hrs. a day and 56 hrs. a week without the payment of overtime if:

1. The agreement was made as the result of collective bargaining by representatives of employees certified as bona fide by the National Labor Relations Board;

2. There is in the agreement limiting the hours of work to 2,000 in 52 weeks a provision for a fixed annual wage or continuous employment for either 52 weeks or 2,000 hrs.

"Should the 1,000 or 2,000-hr. maxima be exceeded, overtime is due the employees for all hours in excess of 40 in any given workweek," Colonel Fleming declared.

Greyvan Rights in 38 States Recommended

Examiner B. Freidson late in November recommended that the I.C.C. grant Greyvan Lines, Inc., Chicago, a "grandfather" certificate authorizing it to transport household goods between all points in 38 States and the District of Columbia. This would include all States except Montana, Wyoming, Utah, New Mexico, Washington, Oregon, California, Nevada, Arizona and Idaho.

Greyvan's application previously had been considered by another examiner who recommended that it be denied. Exceptions were filed and, following oral argument, the case was reconsidered by Examiner Freidson.

Brenckman Heads Private Owners' Group

Fred Brenckman, the National Grange, Washington, D. C., has been elected president of the National Council of Private Motor Truck Owners. He succeeds W. H. Ott, Jr., of the Kraft-Phenix Cheese Corp., Chicago, other officers elected were: vice-president, Eastern District, T. L. Preble, Tide Water Associated Oil Co., New York; vice-president, Central District, W. A. Quinlan, American Bakers Assn., Chicago; vice-president, Western District, P. A. Anderson, Private Truck Owners Bureau of California, San Francisco; and vice-president, Southeast District, E. M. Fetherston, Jr., David Pender Grocery Co., Norfolk, Va.

At its annual meeting on Dec. 10 at the Pennsylvania Hotel, New York City, the group heard F. C. Horner, General Motors official and consultant to Ralph Budd, transportation member of the Advisory Commission to the Council of National Defense, stress on the fact that in the defense program, motor trucks owned by private operators will play a very important part. Since 8 out of 10 trucks are privately owned, these to a large extent must be depended on in the defense program.

Leon F. Banigan, managing director of the group, reported that the Council is opposed to any move that will prohibit industry from transporting its own goods in its own vehicles. It also agreed that regulation of private motor truck transportation should be limited to safety and that weight and length limitations in any State should not be more restrictive than those advocated by the American Assn. of State Highway Officials and/or by the Society of Automotive Engineers as the "least maximum."

I.C.C. Rules Against Transport Merger

The I.C.C. on Dec. 30 issued its report and order denying the proposed merger of the Transport Co., and also its application for authority to capital stock and to assume obligations in respect of securities of others. The Transport company's application to acquire control of numerous other companies through purchase of capital stock was also denied.

Although the decision was unanimous, Chairman Eastman gave a separate view in which he deplored the hasty action in the case.

National Defense May Hasten Removal of Barriers

National defense may provide the impetus that will hasten the removal of highway barriers between States, asserted Chester H. Gray, director of National Highway Users Conference, in addressing the 5th Annual Symposium of the Tax Institute at Chicago.

"It is certain," said Mr. Gray, "that the Federal Government will not permit the holding up of troops and materials at State lines. It is equally important that highway users in transporting loads to factories, and from farms to markets, have the same privileges. If the States do not act to eliminate highway barriers, then highway users may expect that the Federal Government will step in and insist on reciprocity between the States.

"Highway users dislike the State-erected barriers to the flow of traffic across their State lines, and in this era of national defense they are not becoming militaristic; they are merely continuing their opposition of a decade against obstructions and hindrances to highway commerce.

"However, highway users would prefer the States to become national enough in their points of view to 'beat Washington to the draw' on this controversial issue. If the States do not act, the present move of the defense campaign and the control of all interstate commerce given Washington by the commerce clause of the Constitution will solve the problem in short order."

Hardin Bill Would Help Texas Operators

Former State Senator Carl Hardin, secretary of the Private Truck Owners Assn., has prepared a bill which will be introduced this month in the Texas legislature that would exempt privately-owned trucks from present motor carrier regulations and rates, and permit charge of delivery fees as incidental to sale of goods and commodities. It was stated by Hardin that more than 300,000 privately-owned trucks in Texas were placed under a cloud by a court ruling which held that trucks used by owners to transport their own goods came within boundaries of the motor carrier act passed in the 42nd legislature.

The trucks are now operating under a State resolution which states that it was not the intent of the legislature to include private carriers in the motor carrier act, Hardin said.

"This condition places Texas business at a disadvantage and in an uncertain position. The truth is, that until the situation is remedied and the law amended, the hundreds of thousands of trucks are operating outside of the law and have no legal right on the highways."—Hormaday.

James Johnson, vice-president of the Horton Motor Lines, Charlotte, N. C., was selected by Miss Ellen Drew, Paramount star, as the most photogenic delegate at the November convention of the American Trucking Associations, Inc., held in Los Angeles.

The screen attraction consisted of a typical Hollywood studio set-up in the rooms at the headquarters of the White Motor Co. Hundreds of screen tests were made and Mr. Johnson won top honors.

Truck Drivers Identified at Wis. Plant

As is becoming common practice in large plants all over the country, manufacturers in Wisconsin are putting into effect systems of checking drivers entering and leaving the plants, insisting on proper identification in each case. In Milwaukee especially, where many large plants are working on defense orders for the Federal Government, a strict check is being made on all trucks entering and leaving the plants, and this, of course, also applies to individuals.

Some of the cartage and trucking companies use passes with the drivers' picture and description, certifying that he is an American citizen and a bona fide employe of the trucking concern. The passes are signed by the truck driver in the presence of an officer of the trucking company to avoid forgery, such passes being surrendered to the company when the employe leaves the firm—Hubel.

Utility Group Urges Wiping Out of Barriers

The National Assn. of Railroad and Utilities Commissioners at a Miami, Fla., meeting early in December took under consideration a strong appeal for action by State regulatory bodies to wipe out interstate highway trade barriers by promoting a drive for uniform and nationwide truck reciprocity. This appeal was submitted by the group's committee on motor transportation regulation. Chairman George McConnaughey, of Ohio, who prepared the report, stated that whole-hearted reciprocity among the States was necessary not only in the public interest, but also to prevent complete transfer of transportation to the Federal Government.

Uniform national freight classification for all type of carriers; need for eliminating transportation waste by preventing overlapping services; and the I.C.C.'s investigation of all rail and motor carrier class rates, were also discussed.

It was stated that the present classifications are not satisfactory and do not meet the requirements for freight classification, because the bulk of all traffic is moved on exceptions to the classification or on commodity rates. The report also added that a proper classification should be based primarily on weight and volume, although some consideration should be given the possibility of damage to the shipment and to value of the shipment when such factors justify a higher classification rating.

Uses Butane-Propane Gas for Fuel

W. A. Steffke, head of the Steffke Freight Co., Wausau, Wis., states that 28 of his trucks are to be converted to the use of butane-propane gas for fuel. A 2-mo. test on 2 of the company's tractors resulted in a 15 per cent cut in operating costs, it is stated.

An 18,000-gal. steel tank, with plate 1-in. thick and weighing 62,000 lbs., has been erected on a siding at the Steffke Freight Co. warehouse, from which the fuel is pumped into the 125-gal. tanks on the converted trucks.—W.T.N.B.

Adds 18 Diesel Tractors

Glendenning Motorways, Inc., Milwaukee, has received 18 new G.M.C. 110-hp. Diesel tractors and 12 new all-aluminum refrigerated trailers. The firm, which operates from Milwaukee to the Twin Cities, Duluth, Fargo, Rochester, Mankato and intermediate points, has doubled its business in the last 3 yrs. With the new equipment, the running time between Milwaukee and the Twin Cities has been reduced from 13 hrs. to 9 and 10 hrs., it is stated.—W.T.N.B.

Will Increase Cal. Axle Load

When the 1941 session of the California Legislature convenes in January, the Division of Highways will have introduced, with the approval of the Truck Owners' Assn. of California, a bill to change the basis of establishing gross weights of axle loads from a fixed weight to a formula. The proposed formula to be recommended, it is understood, will have the effect of increasing the axle load from 17,000 to 18,000 lbs.—Gidlow.

License plates and permits, all evidence that the law has been obeyed, but what a headache to those who at this time of the year have to renew them. No wonder, those engaged in long distance hauls are agitated over State barriers, truck regulation, and State reciprocity. We agree with Ben Kirschenbaum of Neptune Storage, Inc., New Rochelle, N. Y., whose truck is illustrated above, that it is about time that something concrete is done to correct this situation.

Cal. Canned Goods Rate Order

Supplementing its Decision No. 33559, handed down Oct. 1, the California Railroad Commission has issued an amended opinion and order, effective Dec. 1, 1940, modifying the minimum rates, rules and regulations established for the transportation of canned goods and related articles by common, radial highway common and highway contract carriers.

Class and commodity rates formerly applicable to shipments of articles listed in Item No. 610-D of Highway Carriers' Tariff No. 2, regardless of the manner in which they were packaged, now apply only to shipments of those articles in packages designated in the item. Higher rates provided elsewhere in the tariff apply to shipments of the commodities involved when they are packaged so as to conform to special requirements set forth in Item No. 610-D.

The increased rates were established in the Oct. 1 opinion upon petition of rail lines and were based upon the record made at several public hearings. The Sacramento Chamber of Commerce subsequently sought reinstatement of certain rates cancelled by Decision No. 33559.

The petitioners claimed, in effect, Decision No. 33559 excluded from rates established for canned goods and articles normally grouped therewith numerous articles which are usually shipped in bulk in shipping containers or in packages not specified in Item No. 610-D. Testimony presented by the petitioners was designed to show that the effect of these exclusions was to materially increase the rates on numerous articles long accorded canned goods rates. Contention was made that the evidence submitted in support of the rail lines' petition did not justify such increased rates and that it was clear from the language of Decision 33559 that the C.R.C. had intended that increases should affect only articles which were not canned goods or were not ordinarily grouped with canned goods for rating purposes.

Evidence was also submitted showing the packaging normally used by concerns shipping the various items excluded from the canned goods classification under the original decision. These items included fish and meats, garlic and onion powder and chips, milk and buttermilk, and others. It was testified that such articles when packaged as demonstrated at the hearings had long been regarded as canned goods or accorded the same rates in common carrier tariffs. They urged that in all instances where customary packaging was excluded from the canned goods rates provided by Highway Carriers' Tariff No. 2, the tariff be amended by providing such packaging.

The Canners League of California and the Basic Vegetable Products Co. recommended to the Commission that in all instances where customary packaging was excluded from the canned goods rates provided by the Highway Carriers' Tariff No. 2, the tariff be amended by providing for special packaging.

The C.R.C. approved, and ordered entered into original Decision No. 33559, amendments providing for special packaging of certain items. The articles for which individual treatment was claimed, and granted, were: fish and meats, prepared cooanut, garlic and onion powder and chips, milk and buttermilk. The amendment also provides that in addition to the package requirements of general application, those commodities, except fish and meat, be permitted to enjoy the canned goods rates when shipped in boxes or in double bags or in multi-walled paper bags. Meat is accorded canned goods rates under the amended opinion when shipped in bulk in crates or boxes, and fish when shipped in boxes.—Herr.

Cal. Warning on H.H.G. Claim Settlements

The California Railroad Commission and I.C.C. have issued supplementary interpretations of the rating provisions of the I.C.C. Act, California Public Utility Act and the Highway and City Carriers Act pertaining to the handling of household goods, emphasizing that settlement of claims for damages on household goods shipments in excess of the released or declared valuation rates actually constitute rebates.

Both the C.R.C. and I.C.C. have issued warnings to California operators that in such cases both the carrier and shipper alike are subject to penalties under the rebating provisions of the 3 acts.

Following receipt of the official warnings, 6 Southern and Central California van, storage and warehousemen's associations issued a joint statement of caution to their memberships, urging rigid compliance with the rebating prohibitions of the various State and Federal acts.

The joint bulletin was issued by the California Van & Storage Assn., California Household Goods Carriers Bureau, Truck & Warehousemen's Assn. of San Diego & Imperial Co., San Francisco Movers' Assn., Draymen's Assn. of Alameda County, and United Van & Storage Assn. of Los Angeles.

The bulletin points out that damage claims on goods transported at rates on released or declared valuation rates for the transport of goods shipped by motor van are predicated on a specific released valuation.

"In the case of intrastate shipments," the bulletin stated, "the lowest rates prescribed by C.R.C. are on a released valuation of not more than 10 cents per pound per article, and on interstate shipments the minimum rates are based on a released valuation not exceeding 30 cents per pound per article."

Shipments released at valuations in excess of the above take higher rates, the associations point out, advising that a declaration of valuation must be made in writing prior to transporting the shipment, when the rate assessed must be based on the released or declared valuation of the property.

"Ofttimes when goods are damaged in transit, the shipper feels that the carrier should be liable for the losses in amounts exceeding the declared or released valuation of the property upon which the transportation rate has been based," the bulletin continues. "It is quite evident the carrier is not in a position to make any adjustments on this basis without violating the law and subjecting both himself and the shipper to the penalties set forth in said law.

"Members of the moving industry will, as they have in the past, continue to use every precautionary measure available to eliminate loss or breakage. However, on shipments containing articles more valuable to the shipper than the released value specified under the minimum rates, we recommend the use of transit insurance which may be secured at nominal cost without increasing the transportation rate."—Herr.

Fruehauf Govt. Order for 237 S. Trailers

The Fruehauf Trailer Co. has received a Government order to build in Kansas City 237 semi-trailers, similar to the Aerovan type made in that plant for Fruehauf's moving van business in the United States east of the Rockies, for the army air corps. The trailers are 28 ft. long and have a drop frame, placing the floor at a level lower than that used on vehicles depending on dock loading facilities.

The air corps specifications call for screened windows. An order for 237 dollies was expected to be filled in Fruehauf's Detroit plant. —S. Smith.

Bekins in Cross-Country Haul

Two vans of the Bekins Van and Storage Co. recently completed a trip from New York City to Bel-Air, Cal., in which 18,480 lbs. of household goods belonging to Oscar Homolka, motion picture star, were delivered intact. It is claimed this was one of the biggest shipments of its kind by van between the East and West Coasts. The trip was made in 12 days.

Liberty Highway Hauls 240,966,977 Lbs.

At a recent gathering of drivers, maintenance men, and other employes of the Liberty Highway Co., Toledo, Ohio, president Frank C. Schmidt announced that during the last year the company had increased employment 30 per cent and that the company's trucks had hauled 240,966,977 lbs. of freight to all parts of the Nation up to Nov. 1.

During the first 11 mos. of 1940, the trucks had traveled 4,192,267 miles, having only 85 accidents, all minor.

New trucks, trailers and tractors will be purchased.—Kline.

Boise, Ida., Terminal for Consolidated Freightways

Construction of a freight warehouse and motor freight terminal at Boise, Ida., is contemplated by Consolidated Freightways, Inc. Work is to start this Spring and the cost will range from $75,000 to $80,000. Included in the building will be a full basement, offices, loading docks, storage space and repair shops for the trucks, about 10 or 12 of which, with trailers, will use the terminal—Haskell.

Ark. Truck Rates Increased

The Arkansas Corp. Commission has granted the Associated Motor Carriers of Arkansas authority to increase class freight rates, the increases averaging 10 per cent on hauls up to 150 miles, 5 per cent on hauls from 161 to 200 miles, and 3 per cent for hauls of 151 to 200 miles. An application for increased rates on hauls above 200 miles was denied, as was another request that increased rates on fertilizer, insecticides and fungicides.

The order granting the increased rates acknowledged that "the record shows conclusively that recent Federal legislation has tended to increase operating costs of motor carriers," and added that further increases were in prospect.

First-class rates under the new tariff, per 100 lbs., will include: 151 to 160 miles—79 cents; 161 to 170 miles—87 cents; 171 to 180 miles—95 cents; and 181 to 190 miles—$1.04.—Grissam.

International Announces New Truck Models

Of special interest to users of light-delivery and light-duty trucks ranging in rated capacities from ½ to 1½ tons is the announcement of International Harvester's new line of 5 models in that capacity range. The new Internationals are: the ½-ton Model K-1, ¾-ton Model K-2, 1-ton Model K-3, 1¼-ton Model K-4, and the 1½-ton Model K-5. Wheelbases range from 113 to 177 in. and gross weight ratings from 4,400 to 13,500 lbs.

Outstanding among many important mechanical features of the new Internationals is the new "Green Diamond" engine which, in 3 sizes, powers the 5 new models.

International also announces new and highly efficient hydraulic brakes on all of these models. Two-shoe, double-anchor-type brakes provide greatly improved braking ability for trucks of the various sizes. On the larger-capacity units, Models K-4 and K-5, an entirely new but fully-proved, type of rear-wheel brake (the new "Hi-Tork" brake) is employed. These new brakes have many outstanding advantages, including more nearly equalized brake-shoe pressure which results in longer lining and drum life, increased brake efficiency, reduced maintenance costs, simplicity of design, minimum number of parts, and easy adjustment features.

Among other and important features in the new International are exceptionally easy-riding qualities, all-steel "comfort" cab with quickly adjustable seat and back cushions, improved steering, and standardized cab-to-rear-axle dimensions so vitally necessary to body interchangeability and improved load distribution.

In these new models are other quality features of design such as full-floating rear axles (except in the ½-ton and ¾-ton models), roller bearing anti-friction universal joints, improved self-aligning propeller shaft center bearings in the long-wheelbase chassis, rubber-cushioned 3-point engine mounting, rubber-mounted radiator, sealed beam headlights, mechanical shift starter, oil bath air cleaner, sturdy truck-type clutches and gearsets, and 2-speed rear axles in 1¼ and 1½-ton models.

Elements of the new and distinctive styling include the sweeping lines of hood, grille, and fenders; conservative use of chromium trim; headlights mounted in fenders; gracefully curving skirted fenders, which, with the grille, form an easily removed, one-piece unit which provides maximum accessibility for the engine; one-piece hood raised from the front; and sloping, V-type, one-piece windshield which gives excellent visibility. Standard bodies of many types are available in various sizes for each of the 3 lighter models. Standard stake, dump, and other body types are available for the larger units.

Ill. Truck Control Law Ruled Valid

The Illinois motor truck control act of 1939 has been ruled valid by Judge Victor Hemphill in an opinion in connection with a test suit filed a few months ago by the Certified Motor Carriers and others.

The entire act was sustained with but one exception, namely that covering the provision which declared it was mandatory for the department of public works and buildings to give a certificate of convenience and necessity to any trucker upon his presentation of affidavits from 25 shippers in the immediate vicinity of his operations. Judge Hemphill criticized this provision, because it delegated judicial powers to signers of the affidavits.

The decision is hailed in motor truck circles as the greatest victory in the history of Illinois trucking. That Judge Hemphill sustained the whole act with one exception was highly pleasing to carriers who have never liked the provision of the law which would give certificates of convenience and necessity to truck operators simply on their securing affidavits from shippers.

United Van Group's First Birthday

United Van & Storage Assn., Inc., celebrated the first anniversary of its founding with a birthday party meeting at Los Angeles, on Nov. 27. President Robert Renner of Los Angeles presided.

Reporting on U.V.S.A. progress during the first year of its existence, executive-secretary Harold Blaine disclosed that membership had quadrupled, increasing from a charter membership of 32 to 112. He cited the following as among the outstanding accomplishments of the organization during the past year:

Application to the California Railroad Commission for extension of carrier classification to Santa Barbara and resultant increases to carriers of household goods in that area.

A concentrated drive against rate violators in Southern California.

Action to impel the C.R.C. to restrict the indiscriminate entry of new operators into the already overcrowded van and storage field.—Herr.

Compulsory Vehicle Inspection in N.Y.

It is believed that an effort will be made to enact compulsory motor vehicle inspection laws in New York State during the 1941 legislative session. No definite information regarding the type of law to be proposed is currently available, although latest rumors indicate fiscal problems may be circumvented by making car and truck dealers, as well as some garages, "inspection stations" if they can meet with certain qualifications.

FROM THE LEGAL VIEWPOINT

Owner Not Liable for Storage Costs

LEGAL EDITOR, DandW: Recently a person placed in our warehouse for storage certain goods that did not belong to him. He did it because he needed the space in the building in which the goods were located. Now, we find that our driver failed to get a storage order signed as no one was there when he picked up the goods. Later we notified the owner that we had his goods in storage. Can we collect the storage charges?—Wool Storage.

Answer: It is my opinion that the person who authorized you to place the goods in storage, to have them removed from the building, is responsible for payment of your charges. Some courts have held that consent of the owner of goods to have same placed in a warehouse for storage makes him liable for the storage bill, but the majority of courts hold that in order to hold the owner responsible, the warehouseman must obtain an order, either verbal, written or implied. It is possible that the court may hold the owner liable for payment of the storage which accrued after you notified him that the goods were in storage, but it is only possible, since facts supplied by the testimony may alter the case.

One important point of law must not be overlooked, and it is as follows: If, through necessity, a warehouse takes goods in storage, as where doing so will preserve them, or prevent their loss, damage or destruction, then, under these circumstances, the court will hold the owner liable for payment of the storage charges. However, in your case you state that a person authorized you to store the goods because he needed the space in the building in which the goods were located. If this person had placed the goods on the sidewalk and you had taken them, then you would be entitled to recover the storage charges, since your taking the goods would have prevented their loss or destruction. But, as above mentioned, since the person who needed the space authorized you to take the goods, he should pay your bill, particularly if you did not know the true owner of the goods when your driver accepted same for storage. If, however, the court may hold the owner liable for payment of storage from the time you notified him that you had his goods, then the person who authorized you to take them into storage may not be liable for storage charges from the date that you contacted the true owner.

Could Be Liable for "Trespasser's" Injury

LEGAL EDITOR, DandW: A man who had no business in our warehouse, used for storage of merchandise, was seriously injured when he fell off some steps which he claims he could not see. This man has filed suit for heavy damages. Are we liable? — Wilson Warehouse.

Answer: Here is the law: A warehouseman owes the duty of "ordinary care" to safeguard customers against injury, if by implication or direct invitation the customer had a right to be in the location where the injury occurred; a warehouseman owes only the duty of slight care to protect trespassers against injury. In other words, if the injured person was not a trespasser, you may be held liable because you owed him the duty of ordinary care, and should have provided proper illumination at the place of injury. On the other hand, if the injured person was a trespasser, you would not be liable because you are not required to use more than slight care to protect trespassers against injury.

In the late case of National v. Rasm, 26 N. E. (2d) 523, the legal question presented the court was: Is a person a trespasser or an invitee who did actually go onto property because he saw a sign in a window advertising sale of goods? In this case, a person saw a sign in a window advertising a sale to be held the following day. He went up-steps to investigate and was seriously injured on defective steps. It is interesting to note that in this case the higher court held the property owner liable in damages for the injury, and explained that presence of the sign gave the injured person a legal right to come onto the premises for the purpose of investigating the intended sale. The court explained that had the sign not been in the window, the injured person would not have been entitled to a favorable verdict.

Therefore, if the man, who was injured, had come onto the premises for a purpose definitely established to have connection with the warehouse business, you are likely to be held liable if the testimony indicates that your negligence to properly illuminate the steps, or failure to keep the steps in reasonably safe condition, resulted in the injury.

Disagree on Wage and Hour Interpretation

LEGAL EDITOR, DandW: Since receiving your favor of Aug. 26th, regarding your opinion on the Wage and Hour Law, as published in the February issue of DandW, we have been in controversy with the local authorities. We contend that only 40 per cent of our business is interstate, but they claim that if any part of our business is interstate we are subject to the law. I have shown them your opinion on the subject, but they say that you have no basis for such.

We would thank you to give us your authority for this opinion and some facts on which to base our fight.—Western Warehouse.

Answer: I have prepared for you an answer to appear in pages of DandW, and I shall answer you directly, as follows:

See page 13 of Supplement to Labor Law and Relations, by Herbert A. Lien. Starting at line 13, it is stated that the Administrator has stated that the law does not apply to any employes engaged in any retail, or servicing and selling, the greater part of the work being intrastate. The next several lines explain that this application seems sound, and that the Act is applicable to only such businesses as are engaged in interstate commerce to the extent of more than 50 per cent of their shipments.

However, in this opinion I mentioned that the law on this Act is not established positively until the higher courts have rendered opinions on the various phases.

Now, refer to the later and new higher court case of Pittsburgh, 13 Atl. (2nd) 911, in which the court held that a watchman in a warehouse was not an interstate employe, because he was employed in the work of storage, which is not interstate work. Also, see 13 Atl. (2nd) 397 in which the Federal Act was held not applicable. This is a common carrier case, and the employe was working for the interstate carrier.

Other cases being reported in DandW indicate that an employe is not within control of interstate laws unless he actually is engaged in work necessary to the interstate business.

Of course, new law on this subject will be presented in DandW from time to time as the cases come before the courts, and I wish I could include cases here to assist you other than those above.

Storage Contract Not Signed—Bill Unpaid

LEGAL EDITOR, DandW: When checking through the records of a delinquent account, we find that neither our copy nor the customer's copy of the storage contract had been signed by our agent. Now, the owner would like to remove his goods from storage, but we cannot release them until the storage charges are paid in full. We would like to know if, by our failing to sign the contract, the owner could claim this contract to be invalid, and withdraw his goods without paying the storage charges due us.

Please advise us as to what would be the legal viewpoint in such a case as this.—Abb's Transfer and Service Co., Inc.

Answer: The fact that the storage contract was not signed is not important from the standpoint of collecting storage charges, if you can prove that the owner of the goods authorized you to accept them for storage. In fact, there are many cases on record in which the courts compelled the owners to pay storage charges where by implication the owners authorized acceptance of their goods for storage. Also, if by legal procedure a warehouseman accepts goods for storage, he can collect his charges.

Obviously, where no storage contract is signed the owner of the goods may contend for many different reasons, that he is not liable for payment of the storage charges. However, you may disprove these contentions by contradictory testimony.

In view of the uncertainty of the owner's contentions, it is advisable for you to consult a local lawyer who has had experience in conducting trials involving conversion of stored goods by warehousemen.

This Month's Important Decisions

The Law of Trade Names

A MOST disastrous occurrence in the conduction of any business is careless adoption of a trade mark or name which subsequently is discovered to infringe a competitor's mark or name. Frequently, this mistake has resulted in loss of thousands of dollars in publicity, printed matter, and the like, not to mention the high cost of the litigation. Therefore, it is important to know the legal distinctions between trade marks and trade names.

The trade mark laws provide for registration in the United States Patent Office of any distinctive name or symbol of a salable article, provided the mark is sufficiently different in all respects from marks previously registered so that use of the new mark will not interfere with the established business of the owners of older marks.

Generally speaking, names used to indicate firms are legally known as "trade names," and are quite different from "trade marks" which relate specifically to the names or marks of salable merchandise. Trade names, as applied to businesses, are not registerable in the United States Patent Office but may be registered under certain State regulations and statutes. However, the owner of an infringed trade name may sue the infringer on the grounds of unfair competition, irrespective of whether he has registered the name under a State law providing the business in which the 2 names are used is in the same classification.

For example, in explaining this phase of the law a recent higher court said:

"Unfair competition is distinguishable from the infringement of a trade mark, in that it does not necessarily involve the question of the exclusive right of another to the use of the name, symbols, or device, copied or imitated. A word may be purely generic or descriptive, and so not capable of becoming an arbitrary trade mark, and yet there may be an unfair use of it which will constitute unfair competition."

Also, it is important to know that it has been held in numerous instances that unfair competition is not confined to the imitation of a trade mark or trade name, but may consist of the imitation of a sign, a trade name, a label, a program, an advertisement, or almost any other imitation by a business rival of some distinguishig earmark of an established business, providing the imitation is calculated to mislead the public and lead patrons into the belief that they are patronizing the original user of the name.

Therefore, in determining whether or not a trade name infringes a previously used one, the important consideration for the court is whether or not the patrons of the original company are likely to be confused or deceived by the similarity of the later adopted name.

For instance, in Alhambra Transfer & Storage Co., 106 Pac. (2nd) 63, California, the Alhambra Transfer & Storage Co. sued the Alhambra Van and Storage Co. to prevent the latter from doing business under this name. The Alhambra Transfer and Storage Co. proved that in the past it had been engaged in the transfer and storage business, but the testimony showed that at present it is not engaged in this business but confines its business efforts to the real estate business, whereas the Alhambra Van and Storage Co. is engaged in the warehouse and transfer business. However, the Alhambra Transfer & Storage Co. alleged that the Alhambra Van and Storage Co. is engaged in the transfer and storage business, and has its principal place of business directly across the street from the office and warehouse of the Alhambra Transfer & Storage Co., and that the former is unlawfully using the corporate name.

The higher court refused to hold the Alhambra Van and Storage Co. liable and said:

"In cases of this character involving the use by one corporation or partnership, of the name of another corporation or partnership, there are 2 theories upon which a recovery may ordinarily be had. One of these is for the invasion of the exclusive trade mark, and the other is based upon the common-law doctrine of unfair trade dealing or unfair competition . . . In our opinion, the name of plaintiff corporation, 'Alhambra Transfer & Storage Company', is not entitled to protection as an exclusive trade name. With reference to the 2nd theory mentioned, that of unfair trade dealing, it first should be pointed out that plaintiff and defendants are not engaged in competitive enterprises, or in competitive businesses. . . . Here, plaintiff is engaged in the real estate business, while defendants are engaged in the transfer and storage business. Under such circumstances the customers of plaintiff cannot be deceived."

Law of Chattel Mortgages

WHAT constitutes sufficient change of possession to perfect a sale of a chattel necessarily varies with the circumstances of each particular case. However, it is required that such change shall be visible, unequivocal, exclusive and continued, so that the community, or those accustomed to deal with the vendor shall be apprised of the fact that he has ceased to be the owner of the property.

On the other hand, where the property is in the hands of a 3rd person at the time of the sale, and he is notified by the purchaser of the transfer of title, and agrees to hold it for the purchaser, a visible change of possession is not required. In other words, the possession by such 3rd person puts the creditor upon inquiry as to its character and charges him with knowledge of such facts as could be ascertained thereby.

Another important point of law is that it is customary to record chattel mortgages in order that the holder of the mortgage perfects a valid lien on the chattels. However, recording of a mortgage is expressly for the purpose of notifying all "strangers" to the transaction that the chattels are mortgaged. And with respect to the mortgagor, mortgagee and all other persons who know that the mortgage exists, such mortgage is equally valid whether or not it is recorded.

For example, in Newton v. Thomas, 15 Atl. (2nd) 589, Vermont, the court held that although not recorded as required by law, the mortgage was good as between the parties.

Notwithstanding these established points of law, all warehousemen are bound to examine State and county records to discover whether chattels are mortgaged before selling them for any purpose, as to recover delinquent storage charges. Numerous higher courts have held that if the mortgage is properly and legally recorded in any county in the State, the warehouseman who sells the goods is liable for conversion. Not only is this rule of law applicable to warehousemen who store goods for individual owners, but also it is applicable to warehousemen who sell merchandise under State regulations.

For example, in Four Corporation v. Satterfield, 10 S. E. (2nd) 914, North Carolina, it was shown that a warehousemen sold tobacco without knowledge that the tobacco was encumbered. However, a person held a chattel mortgage and also an agricultural lien on the tobacco.

The legal question arose whether public warehousemen charged with the duty of selling merchandise of all owners, under State control and regulation, are bound to examine chattel mortgage records in other counties in the State to safeguard themselves before selling mortgaged goods.

The warehouseman argued that since tobacco warehousemen are required to sell all tobacco offered by growers, they could not be liable for conversion for selling tobacco on which a prior lien existed. However, the higher court held otherwise, saying:

"The particular objection based on defendants' immunity as public warehousemen has been decided adversely to them in White v. Boyd, 124 N. C. 177. See, also Higgs-Taft Furniture Co. v. Clark, 131 S. E. 731. From these cases it may be inferred that the public laws regulating warehousemen do not require them to receive and sell mortgaged property without the knowledge and consent of the mortgagee, and do not liquidate their common-law liability for the conversion."

Delivering Carriers Not Liable

UNDER the ancient common law, the liability of a connecting carrier for the safety of goods delivered to it for transportation commenced when the merchandise was received and ended when it was delivered to and accepted by a succeeding carrier. However, the modern law is established that, in the absence of a special statute or contract, each connecting carrier is bound only to safely deliver the merchandise to the next connecting carrier. Notwithstanding this present law, the existence of conflicting Federal laws should not be overlooked.

For illustration, in Alwine v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 15 Atl. (2nd) 507, Pennsylvania, the court construed a Federal law which provides that common carriers shall issue a receipt or bill of lading for received goods, and shall be liable to the lawful holder thereof for any loss, damage, or injury to such goods caused by it or by any common carrier, railroad, or transportation company to which such property may be delivered or over whose line or lines such property may pass within the United States or within an adjacent foreign country when transported on a through bill of lading.

A shipper in Canada shipped goods on a through bill of lading to a consignee in the United States. The goods were damaged, while being transported, and the legal question arose whether the shipper could recover damages from the United States carrier. In view of the Federal law, the lower court held the United States carrier liable. However, it is important to know that the higher court reversed this verdict, and said:

"It is significant that neither the court below have suggested any respect in which the language of 20 (11) (Federal Law) is ambiguous. We may not assume an ambiguity for the purpose of applying auxiliary rules."

Legal Status of Common Carriers' Employes

CONSIDERABLE discussion has arisen from time to time whether employes of common carriers, and transportation companies, are legally classified as interstate employes because the carriers transport freight interstate.

When deciding this question the particular occupation of the employe is an important consideration. Moreover, when determining this question, the fact that the carrier transports goods interstate is not conclusive that the employe is an interstate worker.

For example, in Salkeld v. Pennsylvania, 15 Atl. (2nd) 501, Pennsylvania, the legal question arose: When and under what circumstances is an employe of a common carrier controlled by interstate commerce regulations?

In this case the employe worked on vehicles used to transport merchandise intrastate. However, it was contended that the employe was under interstate commerce regulations and laws because a part of the merchandise being transported was destined to be shipped interstate.

The higher court held the employe to be an intrastate worker, and said:

"Employment follows interstate transportation and begins when the workman, on a carrier's premises, makes a forward move to serve in that traffic or employment, and ends only after he has completely disassociated himself therefrom. Interstate employment follows such character of commerce if the instrumentality is wholly or partly engaged therein."

Carrier Not Liable

CIRCUMSTANCES may exist under which a common carrier may without liability issue bills of lading without incurring liability, although no goods are received for transportation.

For instance, in State Nat. Bank of Maysville v. Chesapeake & Ohio Ry. Co., 141 S. W. (2nd) 869, Kentucky, it was shown that a common carrier issued a bill of lading on goods not received for transportation. A bank loaned money to the holder of the bill of lading and took it as security. Later when the bank learned that the carrier had received no merchandise on which it could levy, the bank sued the carrier. The higher court refused to hold the bank entitled to a recovery, and said:

"It developed that the bills of lading had been issued without the shipments having been received by the carrier. The Bank, as transferee or assignee of straight bills of lading, acquired only the rights of the transferor or assignor."

IMPORTANT!

Many firms find it pays to use 2 color Pioneer Pads—one side khaki, the other side green. This insures one side always being used next to the furniture, and the other side always being used as the outer side. Thus, the soiled outer side that collects most of the dirt and grime is never allowed to be put next to the furniture. This feature helps to prevent scratches and soiling, and always pleases customers. Common practice is to use green as the inside, khaki as the outside—because the khaki color shows dirt less.

with Colson Lift Jack System

Savings in handling costs ... in storage space ... in equipment investment ... increased safety ... cleared aisleways and loading docks begin at once with Colson Lift Jacks and Platforms.

The Colson method combines the advantages of a platform truck and a lift truck in one system. Many platforms can be kept busy with one Colson Lift Jack. Empty platforms stack vertically and save space. Wood or metal platforms in a wide variety of styles and sizes can be used.

The savings which Colson Lift Jacks and platforms can make will pay for the equipment in a relatively short time.

Safety for unbalanced loads—uneven weight distribution will not upset the load.

Platforms store compactly—Little storage space is needed for platforms when not in use.

Spotted exactly where wanted—empty platforms can be rolled into place just like a wheelbarrow.

Send for free booklet—The money-saving facts of Colson Lift Jacks are explained in the booklet: "Colson System of Materials Handling." Write for a copy.

"HALLOWELL" STEEL TRUCKS

pay for themselves in maintenance

$avings

Floor trucks can't be sissies . . . they have to be able to "take it" if they're going to earn their keep. That's why "Hallowell" Steel Trucks are so popular—they're built to take years of punishment without the frequent and expensive maintenance attention required by ordinary trucks.

With their steel plate platforms, welded construction and wheels that roll easily under all loads, "Hallowell" Trucks insure years of trouble-free service under constant rough treatment . . . a fact frequently verified by reports from enthusiastic users.

Many "Hallowell" types and models are available for all kinds of service and at order-inviting prices. Ask your distributor, or write—

TOTALLY REVISED 1941 EDITION

McGOLDRICK'S HANDBOOK CANADIAN CUSTOMS-EXCISE TARIFF

The 50th Anniversary Edition, of the Handbook of Canadian Customs-Excise Tariffs, is now ready for distribution.

ALL WAR REGULATIONS INCLUDED

In its present form, it is the most concise and dependable Customs compendium published.

Complete information on the Customs Act, the War Revenue Act, and Regulations founded on them is given in the first three hundred pages. In the following eight hundred pages the tariff is arranged in both alphabetical and group form. The Alphabetical section is arranged for ready reference and is a simplification of the group. The group section is a reproduction of the official tariff with the rates under all tariffs and treaties, and the classification requirement specially designated, in blue coloured paper.

Another feature is the information on invoicing with specimen forms, on SALES TAX, EXCISE TAX, AND THE EXEMPTIONS THEREFROM, DRAWBACKS, MARKING, DUMPING, Etc., with covering regulations.

The fact that the Handbook is so generally used indicates its value to importers and for buyers and foreign representatives.

A Half-Century of Achievement

FIFTY YEARS! But fifty years young—that's "AWA," as the American Warehousemen's Association is known by the branches of the warehousing industry for which it has been the spokesman nationally for half a century. Among the oldest of trade associations in this country, having been founded in 1891, it has kept pace with the changing scene during each passing decade, ever alive to the current needs of the warehousing businesses for which it functions and to the requirements of the public that they serve.

In its earliest years AWA devoted its attention primarily to the interests of merchandise and refrigerating warehousemen. Soon came the rapid development of household goods warehousing, however, and the Association worked actively in that field, also, until 1926, when its Household Goods Division was consolidated with the National Furniture Warehousemen's Association, founded in 1920. Through its present two Divisions—"American Warehousemen's Association, Merchandise Division," and "Association of Refrigerated Warehouses, A Division of the American Warehousemen's Association"—AWA conducts the activities that it has prosecuted uninterruptedly from the beginning for the merchandise and refrigerated warehousing industries of the country.

The First Annual Meeting

It was on October 15, 1891, that the sixteen "founders" gathered at Chicago to form the Association and set the pattern for its aims and accomplishments on down through the years. These warehousemen had come from New York City, Rochester, Buffalo, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Detroit, Indianapolis, Nashville, Chicago, Peoria, Milwaukee, St. Louis, Kansas City and San Francisco. Some of these were members of the Associated Transfer and Storage Companies of the United States, an organization that had been in existence for eight years and that had had its inception among warehousemen specializing in the storage and distribution of agricultural implements. With the founding of AWA, it appears to have been discontinued and its President, James A. Green, became the first President of AWA.

At the initial meeting twenty-four companies were elected to membership and thus became known as charter members of AWA. Six of these have retained their membership continuously to date, though, in some instances, the company name has changed: Haslett Warehouse Company (formerly Haslett & Bailey, Humboldt Warehouses), San Francisco; Louisville Public Warehouse Company, Inc., Louisville; The Manhattan Refrigerating Company (formerly Gansevoort Freezing & Cold Storage Company of New York), New York City; Riverside Storage & Cartage Company (formerly Riverside Storage Company), Detroit; Union Storage Company, Pittsburgh; and Wakem & McLaughlin, Inc. (formerly Wakem & McLaughlin, Importers Warehouse Company), Chicago.

In addition to President James A. Green, other officers elected to serve during AWA's first year were: Vice-President, Samuel Haslett, Haslett & Bailey, San Francisco; Secretary and Treasurer, Percy Thompson, Western Storage & Warehouse Co., Kansas City. Members of the Executive Committee were: F. A. Warner, Hiram Sibley and Company Warehouses, Chicago, Chairman; C. W. Coffin, Big Four Storage Warehouses, Cincinnati; Samuel Haslett, Haslett & Bailey, San Francisco; Robert Hewitt, Gansevoort Freezing & Cold Storage Company, New York City; T. S. McPheeters, McPheeters Warehouse Company, St. Louis; J. R. Price, Cleveland Storage Company, Cleveland; and Charles Rouzer, Nashville Warehouse & Elevator Company, Nashville.

Objects of AWA Early Defined

Percy Thompson, Kansas City, who served the Association as Secretary for many years and was the driving force behind many of the projects that it prosecuted during the early years, was chairman of the organization meeting, which he had called. Among the purposes of the meeting, he said, were: "To form an Association of warehouse, storage and forwarding companies or firms for an exchange of business to cover the East, West, North, and South"; to adopt a uniform warehouse receipt; to correct certain State and Federal laws with respect to warehousing; to influence railroad and steamship companies to discontinue warehousing; to ship goods to fellow-members; and to issue an Association Directory, showing names, locations, facilities, etc., to be sent to manufacturers and other shippers for their information. The preamble to the Constitution that was adopted stated the object of the Association in more general terms as being "to secure an equitable way of transacting the warehouse business throughout the country and thereby advance the mutual interests of its members and those having business relations with them."

Thus was it recognized from the very beginning that the Association, as the national trade association for the branches of warehousing that it represents, must aim to elevate the standards of the business for the benefit of not only warehousemen themselves, but also of the public that they serve.

AWA Drafts Uniform Receipts Act

And so the young organization proceeded right away to work for the establishment of the integrity of the warehouse receipt as representing the responsibility of the warehouseman issuing it and as a document of title for credit and lending purposes. As early as 1895 contacts were made with the bankers of the country, and within the next ten years, in cooperation with the American Bankers Association, the American Bar Association, and the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, AWA had the Uniform Warehouse Receipts Act drafted that was a little later introduced into the legislatures of the various States for enactment. Excepting New Hampshire and South Carolina, it is now law in every State, setting forth the obligations of the warehouseman as the custodian of the property of the public and outlining the procedure for all concerned in the issuance and handling of warehouse receipts. This was the most outstanding, forward step ever taken to bring about a stabilization of the warehousing business and to secure for it the recognition now accorded it as an essential instrumentality in commerce and trade. As a former President of AWA has said, it "will stand to the end of time as a monument to this Association."

Other Standardization Projects

With the Act specifying what shall constitute a warehouse receipt, AWA gave early attention to devising suggested forms that appeared from time to time until it promulgated the present "Standard" forms, approved in 1924 by the Government's Department of Commerce in connection with the latter's Simplification of Forms and Methods project in its Elimination of Waste program. These "Standard" receipt forms and the other warehousing documents included in the project have been very helpful to warehousemen the country over, and the receipt forms are what the American Bankers Association has advised member banks to insist on when lending on commodities collateralized by warehouse receipts. Also, as a part of this project, were the Standard Contract Terms and Conditions for Merchandise and Cold Storage Warehouses, agreed to by warehouse-users and warehousemen in 1926 and approved by the Department of Commerce as the basis for warehousing contracts. This standardization of warehousing documentation and trade practices has, like the Uniform Warehouse Receipts Act, done much to bring about the stabilization that the founders of AWA envisaged for the benefit of warehousemen and the public served.

It has been seen that one of the things the young Association was to do was to influence railroads and steamship companies to discontinue warehousing. In those days there were no real demurrage and penalty storage tariffs, and freight was permitted to remain on station platforms, team tracks, docks, etc., for unlimited periods. In 1897 AWA finally got the Interstate Commerce Commission to issue its order requiring the railroads to publish demurrage and penalty storage tariffs much as they exist today. Many of the railroads thanked AWA for having instituted this proceeding. On down through the years the Association has had to protect the industry's interests with respect to the voluntary warehousing practices of railroads, steamship companies, and motor carriers; and scarcely has there been a time when it has not been conducting one or more proceedings before the various regulatory commissions or with the carriers themselves with view to having the several types of transportation agencies eliminate bad competitive warehousing pactices that they may be engaging in. One such case, I.C.C. Ex Parte 104, Part VI, reached the Supreme Court of the United States, whose decision was in favor of the warehousing industry's contentions.

It was during the latter half of its history that AWA explored the field of modern cost-accounting and rating procedure for warehousemen, and established the scientific principles that underlie warehousing tariffs and rating practices today. Its publications in this field for both merchandise and refrigerated warehousing are recognized by government agencies, accountants, etc., as the authorities on the subjects dealt with; and they have brought about a stability as to rating principles that has been in the interest of warehousemen and their public. Notable among these publications are the well-known "Warehousing General Merchandise. An Encyclopedia" and "Standardization of Basis for Rates for Cold Storage Warehousemen."

Recognition by Government and Trade Bodies

Practically throughout the entire life of the Association the various departments of the government have looked to it as the spokesman for the merchandise and refrigerated warehousing industries,—the Department of Commerce, particularly with respect to statistics and standardization; Department of Agriculture, with reference to research and statistics in the perishable food field as related to refrigerated warehousing; and the Treasury Department, with regard to bonded warehousing routine. The National Recovery Administration recognized the AWA's two Divisions as the trade associations properly qualified to formulate and administer respectively the merchandise and refrigerated warehousing codes of fair competition under the National Industrial Recovery Act. Similarly, in the present emergency, as in 1917 and 1918, AWA is being called upon by government agencies to speak and act for these two branches of warehousing nationally in the part that they are taking in the National Defense Program.

As one of the oldest national trade associations, AWA is a charter member of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Its long-standing contact with the American Bankers Association has been mentioned; its treatise "Warehouse Receipts as Collateral," now in process of a fourth revision and printing, is one in the American Institute of Banking's "Commercial Bank Management" texts. Other business organizations, research agencies of all kinds, educational institutions, and others having an interest in warehousing come to AWA as a source of information on all phases of the subject, and its publications are sought by and found in college and public libraries throughout the country.

Membership in AWA

The Association began with twenty-four charter members in 1891. Twenty-five years later, when it functioned for household goods warehousemen also, its membership was 204. Today, with the passing of another twenty-five years, it consists of close to 700 companies engaged in merchandise and/or refrigerated warehousing, located in 250 cities througout this country and abroad. Membership eligibility requirements remain about as they were in the beginning. Any reputable person, firm, or corporation that has been engaged in the merchandise or refrigerated warehousing business for two years or more is eligible for membership. The executive offices of the Association and of its two Divisions are at 222 West Adams Street, Chicago,—an address maintained there for many years and familiar to warehousemen the country over.

Such, in brief, is the story of how the American Warehousemen's Association had its origin fifty years ago and how its immediate purposes expressed at the time have been effectuated. From a business that the founders said was in need of added dignity and responsibility and should be freed from the slipshod manner in which many operations had been conducted, warehousing has taken its proper place among similar businesses of a fiduciary character. The services that warehousemen furnish have become standardized, dependable, and widely known, and the business has long since been recognized as an efficient and economical agency in commerce and distribution.

All this has come about largely through the founding of AWA and through the activities that it has carried on to this end from its beginning, as sketchily illustrated above. Warehousemen well may ponder on what warehousing and their particular businesses might today be, had there been no AWA to guide its destinies during this past half-century. For what warehousing today is in our commercial economy and as a means of livelihood, warehousemen of the present are not unmindful of the great debt they owe to the generations of far-seeing, energetic AWAmen who have gone on before.

Would Have Rails Ruling All Transport

The financial problem now confronting the railroads, according to a Hollywood, Cal., convention report of a committee on railroad securities of the Investment Bankers Assn., may be solved by the railroads becoming vast individual holding companies that would control, in addition to their own lines, the air lines, motor transport companies, and water carriers.

The committee took notice of the fact that certain railroads already control their allied water services, some own bus systems, and under Governmental jurisdiction and encouragement there is being established closer coordination between motor transportation and rail service. The committee also added that the transportation inquiry provided in the Transportation Act may lead to revision or restrictive laws to make possible these new holding units, of which, it claims, the railroads would be the nucleus.

The real danger to the railroads is not reduced earning power, but the threat of an upward scale in wages and material costs.

Starts New So. American Service from Los Angeles

Pacific Republic Line announces that fortnightly frequency in its cargo and passenger service to the East Coast of South America starts at Los Angeles Harbor Jan. 4.

Addition to the run of the new C-3 type Maritime Commission steamer Mormacstar, scheduled to load at Los Angeles Harbor on her maiden voyage Jan. 18, will make inauguration of the regular frequency possible. Delay in putting into effect the long-planned schedule has been caused by taking over by the Navy of 2 C-3 ships originally designed for the Pacific Republic's run. Ships taken by the Navy were the Mormacsea and Mormacsun.

Older ships already in the Pacific Republics cargo run include the steamers Independence Hall and City of Flint, which are to be fitted into the fortnightly schedule as they return from South American voyages. —Herr.

Can't Sell Liquor for Accumulated Storage Bill

G. M. Stout, California State Liquor Administrator, has issued an opinion to the effect that warehousemen may not sell liquor for accumulated storage charges.

Stout's opinion came in reply to a point raised by the California Warehousemen's Assn. L. A. Bailey, secretary-manager of the C.W.A., had pointed out that under the provisions of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act, pertaining to the foreclosure of a warehouseman's lien for accumulated storage charges remaining unpaid as to any particular lot of liquors, there is at present no adequate way in which the warehouseman can dispose of the merchandise.

Bailey contended a remedy should be provided, stating that warehousemen cannot be expected to continue indefinitely to store quantities of liquor with no right to sell or auction it. He suggested that the Board of Equalization issue special permits authorizing warehousemen to sell such lots of stored liquor to the highest bidder, the latter to be a liquor licensee.

Bailey's suggestion was declared to be untenable by Stout on the ground that the seller of the liquor as well as the buyer would have to be a licensee. The administrator added that even under a rectifier's license, under the present liquor law set-up, a warehouseman could not dispose of accumulated liquor at auction.

"Remedial legislation may be necessary, as the question does not admit of solution under the present statute," Stout explained. "One of the difficulties involved may be that of securing payment of the State excise taxes. We suppose any provision broadening the lien holder's powers should provide for the repayment of taxes."—Herr.

MERCHANDISE STORAGE AND DISTRIBUTION

OUR FIREPROOF WAREHOUSES are far superior to anything of their kind in the region of Washington. Modern in design and equipment, they provide every facility for utmost service in the storage and distribution of General Merchandise and the storage of Perishables.

THE WAREHOUSE PICTURED ABOVE is located on the main line of the Pennsylvania Railroad, with direct switching connections. An entire train of freight may be run into the center of the building—an exceptional feature which assures rapid and safe loading and unloading of cars under roof.

WE ARE ADVANTAGEOUSLY SITUATED directly across the tracks from Main Freight Office of the Pennsylvania System which handles all freight arriving in Washington over the Southern Railroad, Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad, Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac Railroad, Seaboard Air Line, and Atlantic Coast Line.

ADEQUATE TRUCKING FACILITIES are maintained and we render efficient delivery service. Our location in the heart of the commercial zone enables us to furnish such service at minimum delivery rates.

CALL ALLIED

"The necessity of establishing adequate shipping and delivery facilities at the factory is universally recognized.

The benefits of duplicating those facilities in all important markets are obvious, especially when attended in the majority of cases by actual money saving in distribution costs.

This is exactly the mission of the public warehouse, a mission which it is most successfully fulfilling."

In Business Center near Terminals and Ocean Piers

MERCHANTS WAREHOUSE is also adjacent to the new traffic tunnel, the shortest way to East Boston and northern New England. This ideal location offers shippers numerous advantages, including reduced delivery time and, not infrequently, lowered shipping costs.

The large, seven-story fireproof building, of masonry construction, provides a storage capacity of 200,000 square feet, bonded and free. This space is divided into four distinct sections of solid, fireproof partitions, thus earning a low insurance rating.

Equipment is modern and complete, consisting of whips, elevators and other facilities for the swift, safe handling of goods. Exceptional cleanliness throughout the warehouse creates a condition specially favorable for the storage of foodstuffs, vast quantities of which are received and shipped daily.

Property is served by the Union Freight Railroad. Thus flat Boston rates are applicable to and from warehouse.

Sumatra Tobacco Marketed at N. Y. Free Zone

Sumatra cigar-wrapper tobacco grades of the 1940 crop, useful to American cigar manufacturers, will for the duration of the war be sold in Foreign Trade Zone No. 1, at New York, through the inscription method long in vogue at Amsterdam and Rotterdam.

Details of the plan by which Foreign Trade Zone No. 1 becomes the world market for Sumatra leaf for the duration of the war were made public by Benjamin D. Hill, chief of the Tobacco Division, Department of Commerce.

The plan, Mr. Hill points out, is expected to have important bearing on future American foreign trade. The solution of the Indies tobacco problem, it is said, might have the effect of making the Foreign Trade Zone at New York the market for other commodities produced by the tobacco-growing countries, such as rubber, palm oil, tea, coffee, cocoa, kopak and spices.

It is believed by those interested in the plan, Mr. Hill says, that the money obtained by the Netherlands Indian group in the sale of their commodities will be utilized for the purchase of American goods.

Sumatran growers of cigar wrapper tobacco grades of the 1940 crop useful to American cigar manufacturers were desirous of marketing this tobacco through inscription—auctioning through sealed bids—similar to the practice long in use in Amsterdam and Rotterdam. If this sales method were not used, the growers' representatives indicated it would be necessary to arrange for handling the tobacco at Curacao, Netherlands West Indies.

After full discussion of the problem, it was announced that grades suitable for the United States, and those adapted for use in Canada and the South American trade, and perhaps those grades usually taken by some of the European countries, and others, would be brought to the Foreign Trade Zone at New York, where the inscriptions would be held.

The North Sumatra crop for 1941 will be restricted to about 110,000 bales, although the usual amount of American "foot leaves," normally 12,000 to 16,000 bales, is provided for in the yield.—Manning.

Md. Storage Licensing Repeal

Among the license laws which the Maryland Legislative Council has recommended for repeal is one which deals with the licensing of storage warehouses. The Council, created at the last session of the legislature, will consider and recommend legislation at the next biennial session which begins in Jan., 1941.—Ignace.

New Detroit Warehouse

Whiteway Terminal and Storage Corp., Detroit, was recently organized under the laws of Michigan, with an authorized capital stock of $10,000, $10 per share. Incorporators are Wilson Ray and Seymour I. Caplan. Mr. Ray, the active head of the company, has conducted a trucking business in Detroit for a number of years, and now plans to expand into warehousing and trucking on a large scale.

The company has taken over a building at 4877 17th St., affording 26,000 sq. ft. of usable space. A railroad siding comes directly to the building. The building is equipped with an automatic sprinkler system.—Reves.

To Drop Free Storage at Canal Terminals

Effective Dec. 1, according to announcement of G. W. Pinck, commissioner of canals and waterways of New York State, regulations permitting 10 days' free storage on non-canal freight at barge terminals outside of the metropolitan district were canceled. The rate for covered storage will be ½ cent per hundredweight per 10-day period or fraction thereof; outdoor storage will be ¼ cent.

Unsurpassed Warehousing and Distributing Facilities

Located in the shipping and warehousing center of a large and prosperous market covering western New York and Pennsylvania, northern Ohio, and all the Lake and St. Lawrence River ports, including the Canadian. Thus, shippers transacting business within this area are in a position to enjoy many advantages not available elsewhere.

Docks are served directly by Great Lakes Transit Corp. steamers and New York Barge Canal lines, affording transportation economies that materially reduce shipping costs. There are direct track connections with the Pennsylvania Railroad and the New York Central, and reciprocal switching to all other railroads entering the city. Capacity, 50 cars daily, with all loading and unloading under cover. Pool car distribution. Warehouses are also served by all suburban trucking companies.

Buildings are of modern construction and enjoy low insurance rates. Adequate equipment is maintained to assure prompt, safe and efficient handling, and exceptional facilities are provided for the storage and shipping of goods of all kinds, in any quantities. Established 1903. Capital, $900,000.

The Midtown Warehouse, Inc., is in the Starrett Lehigh Building. Considered the most modern industrial building in New York City.

Situated on the sixth and other floors. Capacity more than 250,000 square feet. 85,000 square feet U. S. Bonded Warehouse.

VENTILATING, HEATING, ETC.

Warehouse is light, airy and well ventilated. Heated in the winter by modern thermoleer units which are thermostatically controlled, allowing us to maintain any desired temperature with these instruments.

WAREHOUSE ACCESSIBLE

By freight or truck elevators. Elevator capacity more than 30,000 lbs. Merchandise can be loaded or unloaded on street platforms or in truck pits right outside of our warehouse doors inside the building. This eliminates the hazards of street loading.

LOW INSURANCE

Compare with others. We are absolutely fireproof.

RAILROAD SIDINGS

Building is known as less carload station on Lehigh Valley tracks. This permits us to handle either carload or less carload freight without cost to the storer.

FREE CALL AND DELIVERY SERVICE

By all R.R., coastwise S. S. carloading Co.'s and long distance Truck Operators.

DEEP SEA AND COASTWISE PIERS

We believe we are ideally located for both. This should result in a low cost of cartage to or from this particular point.

INSPECTION INVITED

We respectfully invite you to inspect the premises at any time, at your convenience so that you may see for yourself the modern warehouse we are operating.

We call attention to our ultra-modern warehouse at 29-39 Pavonia Ave., Jersey City, N. J. Situated on the Erie R.R. and Hudson River. Send for further details of this warehouse—The Mid-Hudson.

Are Pallet Shipments Possible?

fork truck demonstration on new installations is the securing of sufficient pallets to really prove the principle of fork truck and pallet handling. Few realized the importance of satisfying this need until recently. M. A. Lowe, who was formerly associated with the sale of fork trucks, recognized this need, particularly in the metropolitan New York area. He has formed a new company, the Pallet Sales Corp., specializing in the furnishing of hardwood pallets.

This new company has also recognized another need, that of having available a supply of pallets for demonstration purposes. Mr. Lowe has, therefore, established a policy of having available an adequate supply of pallets for demonstration purposes, which can be utilized by the various truck manufacturers and their representatives. These pallets will be constructed in one or more sizes, and carried in stock for immediate shipment, on a very equitable basis. Pallet Sales Corp. will ship these pallets immediately to any designated point, with the understanding that if the system is not installed, and the pallets are not required, the truck manufacturer, his representative, or his customer will pay the transportation charges from the mill to the point of use, and return. If the service is installed, and the pallets are retained, the customer naturally pays the freight only one way, plus the purchase price of the pallet.

This service makes available immediately a good supply of pallets, so that the fork truck salesman is no longer handicapped by not having pallets available, if the customer desires a demonstration. It also assures immediate shipment of pallets, frequently required in a hurry. Because of the quantity being manufactured, these pallets are available at a nominal cost.

Thee is no doubt that the use and demand for pallets is going to increase, and any forward step in producing pallets at a nominal cost will benefit not only the fork truck industry, but all industry.

DandW readers should be vitally interested in this subject of pallets and fork trucks. Now that both the trucks and pallets are available from centralized sources, there should be no hesitancy in giving this method of handling a trial.

Nutting Reaches 50th Anniversary Makes Offer for Oldest Truck

1941 is the 50th anniversary of the founding in 1891 of the Nutting Truck Co., of Faribault, Minn., manufacturer of floor trucks, wheels, and casters.

Because of the very large increase in recent years in the volume of wheels and casters which can be used as replacements on any type of truck, the company has announced that effective Jan. 1, 1941, the name has been changed from Nutting Truck Co. to Nutting Truck and Caster Co. The Nutting line now includes more than 1,000 standard and special designs of floor trucks.

The Nutting Truck and Caster Co. would like to hear direct from long-time users of Nutting trucks to find out, if possible, who has a Nutting truck which has been in service for the greatest number of years. To the user which can show the greatest number of years' service on a single Nutting truck, the company offers to exchange a brand new truck with latest improvements and features for the old truck. Nutting has numerous records of trucks in service for 25 to 30 yrs., so the oldest truck will have to show a record of more than 30 yrs.' service in order to have a chance of qualifying. Write direct to Nutting Truck and Caster Co., G. S. Allen, advertising manager, Faribault, Minn.

Wilmington, N. C., Terminal and Warehouse Proposed

The City of Wilmington, N. C., on Dec. 13, filed with the R.F.C. an application for a loan of $635,000 with which to erect municipal port terminals and a tobacco storage warehouse. The terminals would be erected on that portion of the old shipyard property owned by the city now occupied by the Taylor-Colquitt Creosote Co. The tobacco warehouse would be erected on property in the vicinity of 4th and Greenfield Sts.

The application calls for the loan to be repaid over a period of 25 yrs. and to be secured by self-liquidating bonds. The bonds would not be an obligation of the city, although if the terminals are constructed, they will become the property of the city.

The terminals would have 140,000 sq.ft. of space inside and 52,000 on the aprons and would be of modern, fireproof construction. If built, they will be available for lease by any concern.

The application names J. T. Heirs, executive general agent of the Wilmington Port Commission, the engineering firm of Shourds and Bean, C. D. Hogue, and J. R. Benson. The brief lists a total of 79,634 tons of freight that could be anticipated the first year, with increases each year during the life of the loan to bring up the average to about 100,000 tons.

11 Modern WAREHOUSES

In the Main Industrial Wholesale and Retail Sections of PHILADELPHIA

2,100,000 Square Feet of Storage Space

In each of these modernly constructed and equipped warehouses, every accommodation is afforded for the handling of package freight of practically every kind and in any quantities . . . bonded or free.

Individual warehouses are provided to meet the storage requirements of merchandise requiring extra safeguards and special handling. And each is ably managed by a group of men widely experienced in the warehousing of such products.

Certain sections are equipped with automatic temperature and humidity control. Separate rooms are set aside for fumigation, one of which can accommodate 20 carloads at a time. The system employed completely destroys insect infestation.

Buildings are of steel and concrete construction, completely protected with sprinkler systems, thus earning low insurance rates.

Served by all railroads entering the city, with ample supporting storage yards insuring prompt switching service. Loading and unloading under cover. Storage in transit privileges, via both water and rail carriers.

No matter what your product may be, you will find this organization adequately prepared to handle it efficiently and economically. Write for booklet describing and illustrating the many services provided.

ESTABLISHMENTS OF THE UNITED STATES ARMY

THERE ARE NOW BEING CONSTRUCTED IN THIS IMMEDIATE VICINITY THREE ARMY BASES.

THE OGDEN ORDNANCE DEPOT serves as a loading plant and storage depot for high explosives, bombs, and heavy artillery ammunition.

AT HILL FIELD with three runways 7500 feet long and 150 feet wide the OGDEN AIR DEPOT, a repair and supply station for the United States Army Air Corps, is in the process of construction. It will be a large overhaul and supply base for Air Corps stationed throughout the entire Northwestern section of the United States.

A QUARTERMASTER'S GENERAL SUPPLY DEPOT will be constructed which will cover 1700 acres of ground with many warehouses with railroad tracks and loading facilities for handling 40 cars at one time.

THOUSANDS OF ARMY OFFICERS, ENLISTED MEN, AND CIVILIAN EMPLOYEES WILL BE PERMANENTLY STATIONED AT THESE BASES. THESE ACTIVITIES WILL, WITHOUT DOUBT, INCREASE OUR POPULATION 20,000 OR MORE.

This information should interest National Distributors who are not now carrying stocks in Ogden.

Let us tell you more about it.

WE HAVE A SELLING ORGANIZATION AND SOLICIT ACCOUNTS OF RELIABLE FIRMS.

OGDEN IS THE NATURAL CENTER FOR POOL CAR DISTRIBUTION IN THE INTERMOUNTAIN TERRITORY.

DEPENDABLE SERVICE WITH SECURITY

We receive annually millions of dollars worth of merchandise from nationally known manufacturers for delivery in Pacific, also Central States and intermediate region.

This company's experience has been more than one-third of a century without a loss to any customer. It is financially responsible and complies with bonded requirements. The organization's personnel includes some who have been active in directing the business from the time of incorporation in 1906.

Employees are under bond, and reliable; also trained to be efficient and conscious of the importance of strict attention to detailed instructions.

Storing spot stocks in a public warehouse is not only a selling stimulator for the trade already established, but economically safer as an experimental venture in new territory than leasing or purchasing a building, because sales-managers are not hampered by problems of operation and maintenance.

Some very large shippers have warehoused and distributed commodities here for over twenty years, due to our competent handling. Of course, smaller accounts are welcome too.

Traffic managers and other executives are cordially invited to communicate with us.

Lyon Completes New Beverly Hills Depository

With the completion of a new depository in Beverly Hills, Cal., the Lyon Van and Storage Co. has increased its California service, which already includes depositories in all the principal cities of the State.

The new building, at 9012-9016 Wilshire Blvd., is in the heart of the movie colony. It is constructed of steel and concrete and rises 6 stories, topped by a tower in black stone, with a 45-ft. revolving electric sign. Adding to the attractiveness of the exterior are walls of sparkle-finish exposed concrete, with architectural bronze trimming.

In the rear, a 55-ft. loading area includes a huge canopy, constructed in cantilever style, which extends over the unloading vans. Offices are treated in flush wood veneer with comfortable furnishings, deeply upholstered.

In addition to the 6 floors of furniture and warehouse space, the depository contains a large vault for storage of valuables. This vault includes many new and unique features which add to the insurance of absolute safekeeping.

Another recent activity of the company was the mapping out of a new and intensive advertising campaign by Frank A. Payne, president; W. Parker Lyon, Jr., vice-president; and Henry M. Burgeson, general sales and advertising manager. There is, for example, a new trademark, "The Friendly Lyon," a gay, jaunty lion which is pictured on the company advertising, billboards, etc. The new house organ, appearing on the 15th of each month, has been named "Your Friendly Lyon."

Central Forwarding Opens Ft. Worth Warehouse

The Central Forwarding Co. has opened its new warehouse at Fort Worth, Texas, which also includes a new depot for the Central Freight Lines. One of the features of the new structure is the conveyor belt system that runs from the car-unloading docks, which are on the lower level, to the main floor level above. Thus merchandise can be conveyed from cars to storage or to trucks with the minimum of handling. This belt can be reversed to lower merchandise from the upper level to the car level.

The offices are air-conditioned, as are the rooms for drivers and other employes awaiting duties. Provision is made also for sleeping quarters for truck drivers when laying over before a return trip. These rooms are complete with showers, game and reading rooms.

The manager of the new terminal is U. H. Shaw.

Willis Day Leases More Space

The Willis Day Co., Toledo, Ohio, has leased the storage building at 2200 Starr Ave., extending along the Terminal Railroad. The building has 25,000 sq. ft. of storage space.—Kline.

Correction

On page 78 of the December issue of DandW, it was stated that the Oregon Transfer Co. and the Rudie Wilhelm Warehouse Co., Portland, Ore., had recently consolidated and had opened the East Portland Warehouse Co. on the East side of Portland. This was an error, as the two companies are independently owned and operated and have no connection with each other, outside of joint interest in the operation of the recently opened East Portland Warehouse Co., of which J. L. Colby is manager.

Utah's Use Tax Claimed Invalid

Utah's Use Tax act, passed a few years ago, is now being considered by the Supreme Court of that State from the viewpoint of constitutionality. Sears Roebuck and Co. claims that the law is invalid and claims that it was assessed, because of this tax, nearly $20,000 in a little over 2 yrs. The law was passed to "get at" those who buy goods outside the State and store them for use in Utah, thus avoiding the payment of the sales tax, which applies only on goods bought within the confines of the State.—Bennett.

Present Day Diets and Their Relation to Food Consumption

By Van Rensselaer H. Greene

THE 1939 Year Book of the United States Department of Agriculture lays specific emphasis upon "better nutrition" as a national goal. This report goes on to say that if our present knowledge of foods was generally applied, it would revolutionize our eating habits and have a far reaching effect upon national health and agriculture.

According to statistical data, it is almost a recognized fact that in general the population of this country does not eat a sufficient quantity of green colored vegetables and vitamin C fruits. According to estimates now available, the increase of these foods needed to raise present day levels to that of a sufficiently balanced diet amounts to a 20 per cent increase in milk, a 35 per cent increase in eggs, a 70 per cent increase in citrus fruits and a 100 per cent increase in vegetables. These figures definitely indicate the proportionate deficiencies in the consumption of protective foods in this country.

It naturally follows that the deficiency is chiefly found, although not exclusively, among the low income groups and if a basis could be developed for the increasing of this level it would mean from the standpoint of health of the people less layouts for illness, less losses of working time and a more productive life.

It has been assumed in many instances that lowering food prices while maintaining present income would be productive of better diets for the world as a whole but a reduction in food prices does not always result in proportional increases in the consumption of food. The purchasing power thus gained will undoubtedly result in some increase in the consumption of foods, but also reflects itself in increased purchases of clothing and other items to better the family standard of living.

A large part of the research done by the United States Department of Agriculture has been devoted to the search for methods of producing agricultural products at the lowest possible cost. To begin with, this consists naturally of the better use of fertilizers, crop rotation, the control of crop diseases and the like, but there has also been a definite research development along the lines of improved methods of marketing.

Substantial improvements have resulted from this work which includes, for example, the adoption of official grades and standards for inspection; the development of widespread services of crop statistics and the regulation of more marketing methods.

This research has been useful in cooperation with farmer-owned organizations for the buying of farm supplies and the selling of farm products. There is still much room for progress in the development of efficient methods of farm production and better methods for marketing. There still seems to be substantial possibilities for increased efficiency in both of the above items which would benefit the farmer and the consuming public alike.

At the present time, when farm surpluses are so big, the market price does not cover the harvesting and shipping cost and hence the farmer loses. For the consumer it represents a complete waste of unharvested food that people need.

It is for this reason that lately the United States Department of Agriculture has been investigating a method of putting such surpluses into lower priced products. It is thought, for example, that surplus eggs might be either dried or frozen and made available at lowered prices. The same thing applies to surplus meats which might be ground or manufactured into products that could be sold at prices substantially below the usual market cuts of meat. In a similar way, surplus fruits might be made into juices for low-price consumption.

Differences in food habits by regions, especially among the urban group, are less apparent now than formerly. Modern city markets offer throughout the year a variety of foods from which the housewife may choose. Fresh fruits, vegetables and other perishable products are rapidly transported in good condition or kept under special storage conditions for weeks beyond the productive period. Much progress has also been made in the commercial canning industry.

In addition there is the growing assortment of foods preserved by quick freezing, which retains many of the characteristics of fresh products. The effect of these improved facilities and methods of storing, shipping and marketing has been to eliminate the influence of time upon the availability of many foods. As a result, modern families can choose from a variety unheard of 50 yrs. ago.

As a result of these improvements, there has already been noted a marked increase in the consumption level of milk, green leafy vegetables, tomatoes and fruits. These are the so-called protective foods that abound in nutrients and often lacking in low cost diets. The trends recorded by these studies are definitely shown in the estimates of the per capita sales of food in retail markets. It shows how the emphasis in consumption has shifted from one food group to another, even though the total weight of food consumed per person has remained fairly constant.

Modification of present day diets so as to improve their nutritive qualities without adding much to their cost is chiefly a matter of putting more emphasis upon milk, in its less expensive forms, and upon cheaper green colored vegetables. Many varieties and forms of these foods yield excellent returns in improved value for their costs.

The estimates taken from the Year Book of the United States Department of Agriculture are, of course, semi-theoretical, but notwithstanding, point to a vast potential market yet unexploited, some part of which, yes, even a great part of which, may in the course of time be developed for the quick frozen products because of their greater availability, convenience and lower cost.

As a result of armament preparedness, more people are going to be employed in different types of industry with less time available for housework. Because of the convenience in the use of frozen foods, in that they require no time for preparation in the kitchen, while at the same time containing a high vitamin content, an improved state of public health seems definitely on its way.

Brown Reports Adequate Defense Cold Storage Facilities

In his paper presented Nov. 12 at Washington, D. C., before members of the National Defense Advisory Commission assembled to discuss "Warehousing and Storage for Defense", Col. Wrisley Brown, president of the Terminal Refrigerating & Warehouse Corp., Washington, stated that cold storage warehouse facilities are adequate to handle the defense load.

The cold storage space in the United States now available for use, according to Mr. Brown, amounts to 746,440,000 cu. ft., divided as follows:

|---|---|
| Meat packing establishments | 243,025,000 cu. ft. |
| Private cold storage | 82,092,000 cu. ft. |
| Public cold storage | 351,368,000 cu. ft. |
| Combined public and private cold storage | 50,438,000 cu. ft. |
| Packing establishments doing public cold storage business | 64,537,000 cu. ft. |
| Total refrigerated space | 746,440,000 cu. ft. |

"In addition to this recorded total of 746,440,000 cu. ft. of refrigerated space, it must be borne in mind that none of the local branch houses of the large meat packing companies are included, which in itself covers a considerable amount of such space spread over the entire United States. Also, none of the estimated three thousand locker plants located throughout the country are included, and all of these are equipped with freezing units.

"Let us consider the growth of all types of refrigerated storage space in this country during the period 1921 to 1939. This increase was 208,461,000 cu. ft., or 37½ per cent and, of this increase, public cold storage space accounted for 157,200,000 cu. ft., or an increase of approximately 81 per cent as compared with 1921. This increase was caused by additional uses for cold storage and the normal growth of population. The population increase during this same period, according to the latest census, was slightly less than 25 per cent.

"In connection with the refrigerated space of the meat packing establishments and private cold storage facilities, it should be stated that the supply officers of the military units purchase their daily requirements of perishable products from packing houses and other firms having these facilities, and such military units do not concentrate large accumulations of perishable food at any given point.

"If any question should arise as to possible shortage of available space at a few particular points which may be designated as terminal points or railheads where large stocks of supplies may be assembled to serve mobilization areas, careful planning in the designation of such mobilization areas on the basis of existing facilities would eliminate any such difficulty. This also applies to the allocation of supplies for shipment to points overseas, and a spread of shipping over the seaports according to their present capacity would overcome such a possibility.

"An interesting sidelight on the present situation is the experience of Great Britain where the Government, on account of current war conditions and bombing operations, had adopted a policy of handling all food preservation for long periods by canning, first because of the mobility of the canned products without special facilities; and second because only direct damage by bombs could result if warehouses were destroyed or partially destroyed. The spoilage and resultant wastage of perishable foods by reason of the destruction of cold storage warehouses or powerplants serving them, has made it impracticable to carry perishable food for any considerable time in reserve supply.

"A study of public cold storage space in the United States made by the Association of Refrigerated Warehouses in recent years indicated that the average monthly occupancy of public refrigerated storage space for the country did not exceed 55 per cent in any one year, the average for coolers being approximately 50 per cent and for freezers approximately 60 per cent.

"These basic findings are supported by the Department of Agriculture which for the first 10 mos. of the year 1940 reports the following tabulation:

| | Cooler % | Freezer % | Combined % |
|---|---|---|---|
| January | 45 | 67 | 52 |
| February | 39 | 66 | 48 |
| March | 36 | 62 | 44 |
| April | 37 | 58 | 44 |
| May | 41 | 55 | 45 |
| June | 45 | 53 | 49 |
| July | 52 | 65 | 56 |
| August | 55 | 69 | 59 |
| September | 57 | 62 | 60 |
| October | 56 | 69 | 59 |

"These net Government figures are based on the occupancy of reporting warehouses.

"The refrigerated storage space in public cold storage warehouses, as contra-distinguished from privately-operated cold storage space, is broadly divided into 2 classes, namely cooler and freezer, or temperatures ranging from 29 deg. Fahrenheit and above; and below 28 deg. The freezer space is usually divided into 2 subclasses, namely 11 deg. Fahrenheit to 29 deg.; and 10 deg. Fahrenheit and below. A summary of the official figures shows the following available space in 1939:

|---|---|
| Cooler | 243,504,000 cu. ft. |
| Freezer (11° to 29°) | 15,128,000 cu. ft. |
| Freezer (10° and below) | 92,736,000 cu. ft. |
| | 351,368,000 cu. ft. |

"Taking the Government figures as the basis and making no allowance for the increase in refrigerated space since Dec. 31, 1939, there is available and unoccupied at the present time in the United States refrigerated space as follows:

|---|---|
| Cooler Space | 107,141,760 cu. ft., or 44% of the whole |
| Freezer Space | 33,437,784 cu. ft., or 31% of the whole |

"A substantial portion of this refrigerated space is readily convertible for either cooler or freezer uses.

"The foregoing statistical data, compiled by the Government, establishes the sound finding that existing cold storage facilities are fully adequate to handle the anticipated defense load and meet the changing needs of changing times. These facilities are presently operated by trained, experienced organizations that are fully alive to the possible defense needs and capable of doing their full part to meet them."

Test Shipment of Oranges to East in "Fan" Cars

The California Fruit Growers Exchange and the Santa Fe Railroad refrigerator department on Dec. 15th arranged for the shipment of 10 refrigerated carloads of Porterville, Cal., district oranges to Eastern markets under test conditions sponsored by the U. S. Department of Agriculture to observe new citrus chilling methods. The shipment is being made under a plan to determine ways and means to improve ventilation and weight-carrying limits of the refrigerated cars.

The Santa Fe refrigeration department said 3 of the test cars are the newly distributed "fan cars" in which fans have been built to equalize distribution of chilled air. Department officials said the difference between the temperature at floor level and ceiling in the "fan cars" was only 1 to 3 deg.—Brouthers.
